

African Children Send Flood Relief Funds

Six Birmingham delegates to the National Assembly of United Church Women saw examples of international cooperation among church women that included a donation for New England flood sufferers from a mission church in central Africa.

Attending the recent assembly at the municipal auditorium in Cleveland were Mrs. L. Irving Woodson, Mrs. Earl D. Triplett, Mrs. Fraser E. Pomerooy, Mrs. Norman Ellis, local president Mrs. Newell Allen, and area chairman Mrs. George L. Hagman.

MRS. JOSEPH MEARS, formerly of Birmingham, traveled to the assembly from her home in Maywood, Ill. Mrs. Mears was one of the five women who began the Birmingham United Church Women's group in 1929. Delegates from 47 foreign lands joined the total of 2500 women of all protestant denominations who were addressed by Mrs. Franklin B. Roosevelt, (Pastor Bowles) and Mrs. Josephine Phodaca, head of United Church Women in the Philippines.

PREPARING FOR the "Food Fair" at St. James Episcopal Church on Thursday, Dec. 1 means a lot of cooking for Mrs. Guy Yardley, (left), and Mrs. David Fulton.

St. James Food Fair Offers Home Cooking

The hungry business man and all others interested in food (and who isn't?) have been invited by members of the woman's auxiliary at St. James Episcopal church to a "Food Fair" on Thursday, Dec. 1.

The group, headed by Mrs. Ed. Leavenworth, plan to open the fair at 9:30 a.m. in the church undercroft. Members of St. Catherine's guild, who are helping arrangements, will serve luncheon from 11 to 1:30 p.m., with dinner from 6 until closing time at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Samuel J. Shay is general chairman for the event. She is assisted by Mrs. Guy Yardley and Mrs. David Fulton.

AUXILIARY members will offer homemade dishes for sale, placing special emphasis on Christmas fare such as cranberry relish and mince-meat. Booths will also contain casseroles, dishes, home-baked pies, cookies, cakes and candies.

Assistants Mrs. Yardley and Mrs. Fulton are tucking gallons of spaghetti sauce away in the freezer to "mellow" until the food fair's dinner hour. They will prepare turkey and ham to be sliced and served for the cafeteria style luncheon.

IN KEEPING with the mince-stories, spaghetti, and other dishes on the menu, the undercroft will be gaily decorated in an Italian theme. Candles in wine bottles will center tables, covered with green checkered cloths.

Others actively engaged in preparations for the fair are Mrs. W. L. Bones, Mrs. Allen J. Sproale, Mrs. Joseph E. Williams, Mrs. Pell Hollingshead, and Mrs. Cecil Buckner.
