BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

SOMETHING NEW in Birmingham's observance of National Education Week will be seen next week when "five" classes are held in Mulholland's store windows. Teachers and pupils from elementary, junior high and secondary school levels will demonstrate all types of classroom work Nov. 7-12, according to Charles Palmer, Pembroke principal and chairman of Birmingham school district participation.

THIRSTY LITTLE GOBLINS and spoons had a special treat this year from Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Kelly of Lathrup. Out in front of Lathrup town hall was a nice barrel of fresh apple cider just for the children.

AS WE HAVE PROVED time and time again, cars do not run without gasoline. Another we're sure, can't testify to this is Norman R. Barnard, Troy township supervisor, who had to call the township hall for help Tuesday when he became stranded on 20 Mile road. Awfully inconvenient experience, he told his co-workers.

CLYDE R. ICKES of 27427 Lathrup Blvd. learned the hard way last Saturday that one wrong turn can prove mighty embarrassing. Ickes lost a bus, passengers and all, while attending the U of M-Iowa game Saturday. Delayed in the stadium for just a short time, Ickes took the wrong turn and came out on the opposite side of the stadium from his bus. With about 100 buses to choose from, you can imagine Ickes' consternation when he could not find the right vehicle. While other members of his party searched the area and the city of Ann Arbor, Ickes taxied to the city and took another bus home.

TURNING their Halloween trick and treat coins in at class Monday morning, children attending Holy Name school are contributing $1181 to CNOEF this year. The coins were received Saturday night as a part of their "fun night" for this annual All Hallow's Eve celebration.

RECENT PTA gift to Adams school, the television set, is coming into classroom work with special UHF programs. Friday two programs, "Exactly So" and "Book Parade" will be utilized by Mrs. Geraldine Rue's seventh grade between 10 and 11 a.m. Mrs. Rue has taken a special course in audio-visual training and is incorporating this form of education into her classes as much as possible.

WHEN A FIVE-YEAR-OLD like Janet Decker makes up her mind, things happen. Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Decker, 1265 Bates, thought she should raise some money for United Foundations last week, Tuesday morning. Immediately she set about issuing invitations for a tea at her home that very afternoon. Seven of her little friends attended at a charge of two cents each, all ear-marked for the Torch drive.

AN "ACQUAINTANCE" with Wild Bill Hickock paid off last week for Bob and Ruth Ritter, 16241 Buckingham Southfield township, when they picked the right clues out of the jackpot riddle on WWJ-TV's "Feather Your Nest" program. The Ritters came home the proud owners of a "living room full of modern furniture." "It's fabulous," Mrs. Ritter commented, "and very handy. What with just buying this house a short time ago, having to do lawns and all the other things, we had no trouble finding use for the furniture."

HALLOWEEN JOKERS placed an "open" real estate sign on top of the Gordon Nyquist home on Old Mill road in the Berkshires. It presented a few laughs and also a problem on how to get it down.

HEARING MUSIC on his own handiwork was the experience of John Chalks of Detroit who came out to Cranbrook House last week to hear a noted British trio play. The harpsichord, manufactured in Detroit by Chalks, is being loaned by him to the three musicians for their U.S. tour.
