Dear Homeowner!

Selling a home can be a pleasant experience. Let a REALTOR help you today.

We of the Chamberlain Co. may not have a ready buyer for your home. However, years of experience have taught us not only how to best obtain a buyer but how to complete the sale when his interest is aroused.

Buyer demand is high and the fall rush has greatly diminished our supply of homes. Call for a free appraisal (N.W.).

Sincerely
Bill Burgess

It Takes Years

Yes, indeed, many years of training in the real estate business and in the community concerned before real estate advisors or brokers are really equipped to estimate the market price on your property. Nothing can be more important to any seller than a correct market figure when he wishes to sell.

Our personnel in the main, has a host of years of training and experience and direction in order to properly represent you. In the sale or purchase of a home, the talents of a good real estate representative are altogether of primary importance. Certainly you shouldn't place yourself as an owner or buyer, in the hands of a novice or newcomer or with anyone of only mediocre competency. Find out how long your agent has operated in your area.
