Achievement awards were presented for well worn and long hauls.

Present at the meeting, in addition to the 11 den mothers of the area, were parents and families of the scouts. Prison Camp Comedy-Drama Well Received

The pathos and loneliness of men cooped up in a prison camp, was well portrayed Friday and Saturday by the men of Village Players cast in their opening production, "Staging 17".

Characterization of the surly, unable to adjust to not having his own way, and of the man who can not live without some humor, was aptly portrayed.

The audience saw the bleak barrenness of the camp, the surges of hope and the moments of despair as the men pined for good and bad news. They saw the utter tragedy as members of the camp faced certain death before a firing squad.

THEY SAW the savagery of men who find themselves betrayed by one of their own number and the quick, brutal handling of the betrayer.

The surprise ending of the show, or rather the technical way in which it was handled, brought a sudden burst of applause, a sound seldom allotted to the technicians and prop men.

Final showings of "Staging 17" will be this Friday and Saturday evenings, with certain times at 8 p.m.

Birthdays, anniversaries, guests, births, parties are all new—call the society editor about them.
