OWNERS SHOULD ASK

How long has your real estate salesman or broker been in business? How long has he operated in this community? What owners need most is an accurate market figure on their house when they wish to sell. It takes years and years of experience and competency to make correct market sale appraisals.

Newcomers and novices surely are not well enough equipped to treat with such vital matters as value. The cumulative experience of this office which has operated continuously in the territory and in the same location for nearly 25 years is something you can afford to rely on and trust.

QUALITY YOU CAN TRUST

Custom-designed and built, this home is a tribute to careful, thoughtful planning. Every small, minute detail that would contribute to comfortable, convenient living has been taken into consideration.
