THE NARROW widths can hold subjects de-art or be strung with patterns of string for variations, according to Peggy deSalle, who announces the Monday opening of the month's art show that includes: Maureen Riskey's suggestions for walls, displayed at the gallery; are two life-sized enamel-on-copper figures of cherubs, sprayed from their water-holding base and glistening in modern line; and bird forms in gray colors that scatter about the gallery's walls.

Ground Observers Director Honored
Birmingham's Ground Observer Corps director, George S. Wiley, was honored by city commissioners Monday for five years of service in guiding local GOC activities.
City Manager D. E. Egbert said he felt Wiley had been most faithful to the Corps even going so far as to offering a contribution to help provide a suitable observation post.

First Methodist YF Activities Planned
Oct 9 and 10 are important dates for all Methodist youth.
On Sunday evening, the Rev. Arnold Rankle, D.D., will speak to the Senior Youth Fellowship on "Knowing Your Bible."
On Monday evening the first Youth Night supper of the year will be held. This year something new has been added, a season ticket for all eight suppers.

Bloomfield Pi Phis Set Luncheon Meet
Bloomfield Hills alumnae of Pi Phis are invited to attend a luncheon meeting Tuesday, Oct. 11 at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Conn, 1184 Yorkshire.
"Alums" are asked to bring along discarded clothing for the Pi Phis Oct. 21st rummage sale. On display will also be a selection of Christmas wrappings and calendars.
Assisting with the luncheon will be Mrs. William D. Wyatt, Mrs. E. T. Benson, Mrs. Bernard Miller and Mrs. Edwin L. Karpick.

Adventure Beckons Troy Youngster
TROY — An adventuresome 13-year-old township boy, who started out last Thursday with only 35 cents and his bicycle to see the world (or Michigan anyway) was found early Friday asleep on a bench outside a gas station.
The traveler, Marshall Buchanan, Jr. of 395 E. Maple, a seventh grade student at Baker junior high, didn't even waste time going to school, in his eagerness to get out.
He was set for the coming winter though. He had a heavy wool cap and heavy blue jacket, but according to Police Chief David Gratzop who sent out the missing report the boy couldn't rent much of a hotel room with his 35 cents and had to toss down wherever he could find a reasonably comfortable place.

We Heard It Said By:
WILLIAM BENSCHAW, Troy township DPW superintendent, of vandals' destruction to tomb stones last week in the Crooks cemetery between 16 and 17 Mile roads: "It's outrageous. Some of those stones we can't ever replace. They're too far gone."

Birth
A son, Richard Alan, was born Sept. 16 to Mr. and Mrs. ROBERT N. STAUFFER, of Cincinnati, formerly of Birmingham. Richard has two sisters, Christie and Laurin and is grandchild of the L. D. Stauffers of Suffield, Birmingham.
