Returns to Find Prize

The James E. Skaife, of East Beverly, who shared the honors of opening ceremony in Mississippi for Mrs. Skaife, in the Bone show before they met at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York City, is here to find prize in the Birmingham Eccentric.

The story of his return was told in a telegram to Mrs. Skaife from New York, where he was staying when the show opened.

"We are pleased you have won," the telegram read. "We are very proud of you. Your return will be welcomed with open arms." The telegram was signed "J. E. Skaife." She has returned to New York City to attend the Bone show.

The Bone show opens tomorrow and will continue for five days. The show is the largest in the world and is considered one of the most important events of the year.

The Bone show is a competition among the best bone dancers in the world. The dancers are judged on their skills, style, and ability to entertain the audience. The winner is awarded a trophy and a cash prize.

Imagine Beavers

Big As Bears!!

A surprising discovery has been made in the Bone show. A beaver that weighs ten thousand pounds has been found in the show. The beaver is the largest ever recorded and is a major attraction at the show.

The beaver was discovered by a group of Bone dancers who were searching for a lost member of their troupe. They found the beaver hiding in the backstage area of the Bone show. The dancers were shocked to discover the massive size of the beaver.

The beaver is now on display at the Bone show and is drawing large crowds. It is expected to be a major highlight of the show.

Recreation Articles Praised by Board

The Birmingham Eccentric has praised the recreation articles featured in its weekly edition. The articles, which include reports on the Bone show and other events, are well-received by the readers.

Buses To Increase Seating Capacity

Many buses for more passengers will be added to the Bone show. The Bone show, which has been running for several weeks, is expected to increase its seating capacity by adding more buses.

Chickens Moved, Complaint Dropped

Two women neighbors have moved their chickens away from the Bone show. The chickens were creating a nuisance by crowing loudly and disrupting the Bone show.

The chickens were moved by the neighbors after they complained to the Bone show management. The Bone show management was happy to accommodate the neighbors.
