RUTH JOYCE, creator of Women's fashion originals, has as her chief designer. Don Nagel.

One of their newest creations, is the dropped waist-line lower in the back than in the front. The whole effect is gained by seaming and shaping.

Seaming is a dominate part in the design of a dress. In some costumes the seams are decorative trim; in all, they shape and mold the garment to give the designed effect and distribute fullness.

SIGNIFICANT highlights of the Rith Joyce designs were more construction in bodices for very shapely lines, natural bust (no minimizing or restricting), set-in sleeves, more manipulating of skirts to less fullness, fur trim and beveled seams for decorative trim. A much more covered-up look is designed for "after five o'clock" wear. In suits, jackets are hit length, long box jacket coats, knoe length and the tunic-jacket coats.

The trend is for the softer fabrics in the Ruth Joyce couture this fall. Light weight wools for daytime and the crisp silks from five o'clock on—a whole lighter-weight type of thing in fabrics this year.

Among Her Belongings

Australia.

Betsy is the daughter of the Henry McQueens of Henly drive. The McQueen family returned two weeks ago from an interesting vacation which included a few days in Quebec and Boston and a month at West Brewster, Cape Vol. Mr. McQueen returned from a six-week trip to Australia in time to Join them the middle of August.

The Orchard Lake Ladies golf crown has become a familiar part of the wardrobe of Mrs. R. E. Leahy this year. Last month she defended her 1954 title to annex the crown for the third time in four years. Mrs. Vernon B. Myers is this year's runner up.

The William Burlingames are back home after a month of traveling and vacationing. Their visit to the Carl Thirstedis' 10,000 acre cattle ranch in Great Falls, Mont., was followed by travels to the Tetons, Glacier National Park, Portland, Ore, and Seattle. They spent several days at the Empress hotel in Victoria, Vancouver, B. C., and Bantf Springs, where the worldwide meeting of the Sun Life Insurance Co. was held.
