

Other Council Holds Stormy Session

Dates for Meetings Changed

By WILLIAM H. THOMAS

LATHRUP—Council members promised to reconsider a resolution Tuesday that they had passed earlier in the evening...

But not before angered reporters demanded to know why such a move had been made as a result of a "study" meeting held before the special council meeting.

COUNCILWOMAN Kathryn Ferguson, in explaining the resolution after it was passed, said only that for various reasons the council members decided that Thursday nights would be best for all concerned.

When quizzed just before the meeting's close by this reporter and Mrs. Betty Lewis of the Four Corners Press, who added, "We realized that this would conflict with you people who work on weekly papers, but those who would give you more time to present the news? It was not our intention to suppress the news in any way."

Those who have howling fits at the Councilman Mackey, and Richard N. Cogger and City Attorney Everett E. Hayes.

It was Mackey who, backed up by Cogger, recommended a reconsideration of the dates at the next council meeting on Sept. 19.

THURSDAY night meetings, if they go into effect, will not start until next month, with the Oct. 13 meeting.

Discussion of the change in meeting dates ended the council session, but the heated arguments, which continues in groups of two and three persons for 20 minutes after the meeting was adjourned.

Developer Enjoins Council

LATHRUP—Councilman Richard N. Cogger announced Tuesday night at a special meeting that members of council had the city had been served an injunction that day to halt vacation of the alley behind the National Bank building.

The suit was filed by Louise Lathrup Kelley early Tuesday. "I did this," she said, "in an effort to save as a beautiful community project the proposed 1/2 acre garden which the city is willing to build on the north edge of this alley."

"THERE has been danger of late that our community would lose this outstanding improvement being effected by the whole neighborhood, all because of efforts being made in the city council to vacate this alley," she continues.

"We have asked the court to refer this endeavor to take valuable land and divide it free of charge among private individuals."

CHARLES D. Kelley said that he did not think the county or the courts would approve the vacation of the alley, located behind the bank, which faces 11 Mile at Southfield road, because there would be no commercial activity in its use below the alley's curbside.

City Attorney Everett F. Hayes said he did not know when the suit would be brought into court.

My Neighbors

Diseased Elms Gone LATHRUP—All 37 elms condemned by the state because they were infected with Dutch elm disease, have been removed according to Leonard Watchowski, city administrator.

OLQM Altar Boys EAST BEVERLY—Altar boys of Our Lady Queen of Martyrs church were entertained at a picnic at Cass lake on Tuesday. Tonight there will be a meeting for the boys in the church social hall at 7:00 p.m.

S'fld. Plans Dec. 12 Vote On Charter

SOUTHFIELD Residents here are expected to vote Dec. 12 on a charter which will, if approved, turn the township of 30,000 into a home rule city.

Dates to mark on your calendar, according to Eugene Swem, charter commission chairman, are:

Sept. 15—the date on which a copy of the complete charter is expected to be available to every resident.

Sept. 20—public hearing on the charter in the Southfield high school at 7:30 p.m.

Sept. 26—final meeting of the charter commission to make last minute changes as suggested at the public hearing, before they send the document to Gov. G. Mennen Williams for his approval.

Nov. 14—first day for registering.

Dec. 12—balloting on the charter.

Dec. 15—swearing in of newly elected officials of the charter is expected.

By the day the new city officials take charge of governing the City of Southfield.

Swem, township supervisor, said that the charter will be a "strong" one, and he may act in the capacity of city manager until the new elected officials can have a satisfactory replacement.

For the public hearing each community will discuss certain chapters with the audience, and will be prepared to answer questions pertaining to the charter.

Petitions to nominate candidates to city council will be at the township clerk's office for distribution Sept. 15. They must be returned, with 200 to 300 signatures of registered voters, no later than Nov. 12.

$3 1/2 Million Bond Issue Goes to Voters Monday

(EDITORS NOTE: This is the second and final article in conjunction with the $3,500,000 bond issue to be placed before the people Monday in the Southfield School District. Last week we gave the historical background and a resume of the bond issues and growth of the school district since its incorporation in 1917.)

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Greater enrollments and growing conditions in overcrowding of the 10 schools in an area which cover 27 square miles comprising the Southfield School District, has made the bond issue ballot Monday a voter's obligation.

LAST YEAR there were more than 500 first graders attending classes on half-day sessions; there are no kindergarten facilities available in some schools; more than 800 junior high school trying to accommodate more than 800 seventh and eighth graders in classrooms which hold less than 500; and students are being transported long distances because closer schools are not available.

This year, fourth grade students will have classes in eight rooms for the "second shift."

The year's fourth graders will go to class and second graders to the school which will continue from 10 to 4 p.m.

SINCE 1947 the bond issue has jumped from 1947 to 1955. In 1947, the bond issue was $1,000,000. In 1955, it is $3,500,000. The bond issue is for the 1955-56 school year.

More than 10,000 children from the city are attending in the school district outside the city limits. This tremendous growth has made the bond issue a voter's obligation.

Appoint Campbell Supervisor

By WILLIAM H. THOMAS

LATHRUP—Fostering ill will erupted last night after the city council appointed Mayor John G. Campbell to serve in the council-vacated seat on the county board of supervisors.

The post of supervisor was vacated after Councilman William H. Harvie and Mrs. Everett (Georgia) Nelson, both serving as supervisors, could not decide on who should continue in the post after the resignation of the city's supervisor last from two to one.

At 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, a meeting of the city council was held and by secret ballot Campbell was selected for the position of supervisor.

Harvie seconded his own nomination when no one would support Campbell for the position. Mackey's nomination of the former supervisor.

After investigating on his own and approaching it from the business rather than a political basis, Campbell said he would continue in the post of supervisor.

Before he left Harvie called Campbell's term in office as mayor as "a joke." Campbell said he would continue in the post of supervisor.

"I did not find out that the council represents the majority of the thinking of people, I will resign and I will appoint someone else in my place," Harvie said before he left.

"And I'm going to be defeated," he said. "I will resign and I will appoint someone else in my place."

THE meeting, orderly until then, and with little comment from the audience, broke up. Mrs. Everett (Georgia) Nelson, who had been elected to the post of supervisor, said she would continue in the post of supervisor.

Mrs. Nelson referred to the following quote from Campbell: "We think a change in the supervisor's office is advisable. The council should select a city representative in Pontiac who will represent the majority of the people and not committee or private interests."

"I HAVE had the impression you had or had back on my feet, demanding that Campbell back up charges against her which were public and not private. Three weeks ago, I referred to the following quote from Campbell: "We think a change in the supervisor's office is advisable. The council should select a city representative in Pontiac who will represent the majority of the people and not committee or private interests."
