NEW TERRACES BEING CONSTRUCTED on Russell Lane in Birmingham Hills by the Suburban Inns, Inc. of Birmingham are nearing completion and will open next month for occupancy. The 20-foot multiple dwelling was designed by Harry Bosse, architect, and the Bosse Construction Company is in charge of the

BUSINESS BRIEFS

LORDY SMITH
Lloyed T. Smith
To Head Analysis
At Ford Tractor

Appointment of Lordy T. Smith as head of the analysis department, I.T. & Truck Tractor Division, Ford Motor Co., is announced today by Mr. A. V. Tuller, president of the company. Mr. Smith, 42, is succeeds E. R. Millen, who has been named district manager of the Southwestern region of the company.

Mr. Smith joined the division in 1943 as a branch manager in the Grand Rapids, Mich., division. In 1945, he was transferred to the home office, and since 1947 has been in charge of the division's analysis department.

ANOTHER BIRMINGHAM STORE is opening a new "Way" to the public soon. This time it is the Birmingham Hardware, at 418 N. Woodard, owned by R. E. Brown and operated by his son, J. L. Brown. The store is an increase in the existing building and the new addition will be opened in the near future. The store will carry a full line of hardware, building materials, and general merchandise.

Sheer Perfection

By ... bill williams

... so why not MAKE IT AN OLDLS!

You probably won't buy an Oldsmobile because it's not as luxurious as a Cadillac, or because it's not as powerful as a Lincoln. But you can probably make it one by making a few small changes. First, you can have the upholstery changed to your liking. Second, you can have the tires changed to ones that are quieter and smoother running. Third, you can have the air conditioning system modified to your specifications. Fourth, you can have the radio upgraded to one that is more powerful and has better sound quality. Finally, you can have the dashboard modified to your liking. All of these changes can be made at a reasonable cost, and they will make your Oldsmobile a more enjoyable vehicle to drive.