

View Cherry Festival On Wedding Travels

Four attendants gown in dusty pink taffeta preceded Jeanne Carol Dalquist down the aisle Saturday when she became the bride of Frederick Earl Hollis.

The eight o'clock double ring candlelight service was read by the Rev. Theodore Wuggasser in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

JRANNE'S gown of gleaming white alencon lace was appliqued on silk satin and nylon tulle. The bodice of lace and satin was a fitted poplin style with a scooped neckline and tiny short sleeves. A hoop was worn under the voluminous nylon tulle skirt which fell into a chapel train.

A circlet crown of pearl and sequins held her fingertip illusion veil. She carried a cascade of feathered white carnations and stephanotis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Dalquist, 1756 Cambridge, Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Hollis of Detroit are the parents of the groom.

Honor attendants were Jean Marie Berry and bridesmaids were Mrs. D. Kiddle, Mrs. M. Meinberg and Mrs. Nadine Gildner. Mr. and Mrs. Portrait necklines of their frocks were accented by tiny sleeves and fitted bodices. Two puffs formed bustles at the back of their waist-length gowns. They wore tiny sculptured hats of matching taffeta adorned by soft forehead veils and carried carnations in contrasting colors.

Kenneth Hollis was his brother's best man. Seating the guests were George Allen, Lester Mijtkin and Richard Radko.

FOR HER daughter's wedding and reception following at Birmingham Country club, Mrs. Dalquist wore pearl grey lace over light pink with a flowered hat shading from delicate pinks to dark purple with pearl touches. She had pink sweetheart roses and violets. Frederick's mother had ping cannelles pinned to her champagne lace dress with pink hat.

Their honeymoon will take them to Washington for the Cherry Festival, then to New York and from there to Bermuda for three weeks.

St. Dunstan Presents Melodrama April 13

Undimmed by the challenge of a period play which features odd characterizations in an atmosphere of mystery and suspense necessitating unusual sets, lighting, and split-second timing, St. Dunstan's production crews are ready for opening night of "Ladies in Retirement", to be presented at the Pavilion on Lone Pine road, April 13-14, 20-21.

Ray H. Base and J. Thomas Martin, in close cooperation with set-designer Mrs. James Maunders, have constructed a set capable of looking pleasant in the day-light but at night—deep and sinister under the weird lighting effects created by L. James Schneider. However, their job is not yet finished. Between acts every night of the play will find them frantically bricking up an ancient lake oven.

MRS EDWARD T. Duffett's property chairmanship is made more complicated by the two old

OTHER production workers are Henry M. Jackson and Victor Armstrong, sound effects; Winston T. Kellogg, curtains puller; Dr. Dwight C. Esauig, photography; Mrs. Herbert Taylor and Mrs. Otis C. Thompson, posters.

Rounding up ushers are the Frederick C. Pewe. Program chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Wise, Jr.; and ticket sales are being handled by Mr. and Mrs. Mair Lind, 590 Mohegan.
