Theatre Group Helps Home's 'Honor Room'

Youngsters who attended last year's Children's Theatre productions of the Birmingham branch, AAUW, helped some good causes.

For the season's shows brought $500 in profits, which the theatre group donated to several projects among them furnishing a special room at Oakland county children's home.

The "honor room" provides extra comfortable and attractive living quarters, and is offered to the girl who best lives up to the home's four C's of courtesy, cooperation, cleanliness and cheer.

THE PRIVILEGED GIRL'S furniture and accessories were selected by the home's superintendent, William Moulton, Jr., and Mrs. Lillian Wickman, head girls' supervisor.

"We had a wonderful time deciding how to spend the theatre group's contribution to fix up the honor room," said Mrs. Hickman.

The two decided on a peach and blue color scheme, ordering matching peach enameled bed, dressing table, chest of drawers, and bed table.

BLUE DRAPES were chosen for the windows, with a blue spread on the bed.

An additional luxury selected was a large easy chair upholstered in peach-colored leather.

Three other honor rooms at the home are in the basement.
