Fisher Contest Winners Are Boys From B'ham Area

Leading the award list for the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild model car competition were two young designers from the Birmingham area.
 Bryce Arden Miller, 15, 24001 Lanier road, Southfield was given the first place prize in the junior division and received a $5,000 scholarship to the university of his choice.
 Recognized for his outstanding designing ability was David Koto, 18, 1231 Forchase road, Birmingham, who received a $1,000 scholarship.

THIS YEAR'S contest had the largest number of entries since General Motors originated it in 1930. A total of $115,000 in prizes was awarded to the 43 boys from all parts of the country.
 Presentation of awards was made by James E. Goodwin, General Motors vice president and general manager of the Fisher Body Division last Tuesday at the GM Technical Center.

BYRCE MILLER'S prize winner was a blue sports car hardtop made of fiberglass. The finish workmanship incorporated retractable headlights set wing-like bumpers.

Hauley Talent Seen In Army Muscomedy

The acting and musical talent of SP7 Tom Hawley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Hawley, 378 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham, was evident in "Downtown Local," an army revue spotlighting the lighter side of life in New York city, recently.
 Hawley, co-creator of the muscomedy, directed three acts, appeared in two of them, and participated in the musical comedy.

Sura at Army Camp

Army Reserve Capt. Theodore J. Sura, whose wife, Marjorie, lives at 15830 Kirkshire, Birmingham, is receiving two weeks of active duty military police training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Bids Rejected, Project Postponed

Two bids received for the Southfield pavement widening, 14 Mile to Lincoln, were rejected by the Birmingham city commission Monday night. It was decided that construction of this improvement be postponed and included in the 1957 paving program.
 Lowest bid was 20 percent above the city engineer's estimate.

License Revoked

Found guilty in a jury trial Wednesday before Birmingham Associate Justice John C. Emery, Jr., Ronald C. O'Clair, 29 of Royal Oak, was fined $75 and $25 costs on charges of driving under the influence of liquor. O'Clair's driver's license was revoked.
