League Stresses Importance of Primary Election

Letter to the Editor:
With the 1956 Primary Election just five days away, this seems like a good time to remind ourselves of the great importance of the primary in our elective process. That function of the primary with which we are all most familiar is the nomination of final candidates within each party whose names will be placed on the ballot in the November general election.

If the choice of the most able candidates is not made by the voters in the primary, the party will not be offering its best slate against the opposition in the general election.
A good candidate who does not get by the primary cannot be considered by the voters as a whole in November, consequently it behooves us to choose our party and support good candidates from the very beginning.

THE FUNCTION of the primary with which we are not as familiar is the election of precinct delegates within each party. These precinct delegates, meeting in county conventions, are the men and women who select Oakland county's delegates to the state convention and who compose the greatest part of the delegating themselves. At the state conventions, these delegates are responsible for the nomination of the candidates for the state administrative board this year, the secretary of state, attorney general, auditor general, and state treasurer.
If we are to have any influence in the nominations of our party for these high state offices, we must do it by electing precinct delegates who will represent our wishes.

THE CANDIDATES for county office who are nominated at the primary election also automatically become members of the county committee of each party along with those final nominees for state senator and the six state legislative districts in Oakland county. These county committees select, usually from outside their own group, a county chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer. It is the county committees which are major policy making groups for the parties; and it is the county chairmen, appointed by the committees, who have the greatest power in the parties.
Therefore, if we wish to nominate the best candidates, see that the control of the political parties be not left in the hands of a few and demonstrate the strength of the political party of our choice. It is imperative that we each vote in the primary election on Tuesday, Aug. 7.
