Higgins' Fight for Govt. Economy Drew Wide Support

President Eisenhower receives Michigan Senate Resolution from George N. Higgins and fellow Senators.

As a State Senator, Higgins fought the opposition to a standstill in re-stating "new taxes." A Pontiac Press editorial declared "in matters of state economy, Senator Higgins is the taxpayers' first line of defense."

Higgins Has an Outstanding Legislative Record

George N. Higgins, 36, has a record of accomplishment during his three terms as a State Representative and four terms as a State Senator un surpassed, not only in Oakland County but in Michigan.

Higgins Is a Tireless Republican Worker

President Eisenhower and George Higgins campaigning.

George N. Higgins has often been called Oakland County's "Mr. Republican." For over 20 years he has worked on every organizational task from the precinct level on up.

Higgins Helps Deserving Youngsters Through College

George N. Higgins never went to college. There were long, hard years as a farm boy in Pickford, Michigan, as a hired hand, drayman, clerk, Detroit auto production line worker, car salesman, and eventually he became owner of his own successful automobile agency in Ferndale.

George Higgins and two of his "kids", Rev. Carl Thomas, Lutheran minister, and Natalie Sayers, now a school teacher, who got help from the Higgins Foundation, Inc.

Higgins Has Achieved Personal and Business Success

Mr. Higgins with his sister, Mrs. Jane MacRobert of Royal Oak, and former U. S. Senator Homer Ferguson.

From his boyhood days on an Upper Peninsula farm through years of hard work, George Higgins' native ability and ingenuity have established a record of success. He is an outstanding GM dealer who labor policies and programs have attracted nationwide attention.

Higgins Has Fought for Better Roads

In 1955 Governor Williams surprised many political leaders by appointing Higgins to the Michigan Turnpike Authority, despite the fact that the two had bitter fights when Senator Higgins, as a legislator, opposed some of Williams' programs.

Chairman Higgins gets Pontiac OK on Turnpike Route from Mayor and City Manager.
