WORKING UP PLANS for Civil Defense week September 9 to 14 are (seated, from left) Dick Ernst and Bill Spiegel, and (standing) Bob LeMay and Bud Carrigan, all Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce members serving on the sponsoring organization's civil defense committee. The observance, to stimulate interest in the local civil defense program, will feature a parade and selection of a local miss between 16 and 21 to reign as "Miss Civil Defense." Entries for the "Miss Civil Defense" contest should contact Bob LeMay through the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce office. Also riding in the parade will be the winners of a contest in which youngsters will color an Al Capp civil defense cartoon, to appear in next week's Eccentric.

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

WHEN YOU FIRST see the rubber ball some ingenious store attendant hung above the fresh peaches at a local market, you wonder what it's doing there. Signs pasted all over the ball explained its purpose. They read, "Squeeze ME!"

EMPLOYEES OF The Country Market, Southfield and 14 Mile road, including owner Albert Nelson and Albert Kent, the manager, are sporting 10-gallon hats in celebration of their prize 4-H Club Beef Round-Up. Meat manager Joe Bacarella has put in a large quantity of the 4-H blue ribbon beef which the Rath packing company obtained for the store at the 4-H farms in the state of Iowa. The carry-out boys and the girls at the checking counters are getting a big kick this week in wearing the handsome white Stetson style hats trimmed in searlet.

IN HIS THIS & THAT column on page one, part one, GEA gives you his reaction to political conventions in general, and the Demo's in particular. Averill, former executive secretary to the late Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan, has attended similar conventions, both on state and national levels. Perhaps you'll get a chuckle from this week's column.

KEEPING A CLOSE watch on the political conventions are the girls in the neighborhood of the Ogle Scotts' residence on Northlawn. The girls, ranging in age from 7 to 11, were even moved to making signs, posters and crazy hats, imitating the delegates. Reports from that area indicate they gave those who witnessed their demonstrations quite a chuckle.

"ONCE THEY GET UP there, I don't know how they keep from falling off," said Birmingham City Engineer L. R. Gare of the youngsters who climb to the top of the water tower at Hunter and Maple to monogram it. "I went up there once," Gare told Birmingham city commissioners Monday night, "and I'll never go again." Gare said the unsightly tank is scheduled for painting this fall, as soon as cooler weather makes it feasible to drain out the water for the painting operation.

It is further Ordered that a copy of this order be served on each of the above named persons residing within the County at least six days prior to the day of hearing.

GEORGE B. HARTICK,
Circuit Judge.
