

If man is born of a Divinity whose hands have shaped the universe, then man is not pre-destined to the confines of any form of permanent slavery. No dictatorship, no personal or outside negative influence can snuff a man who achieves his true oneness with God.

MRS. HARRY G. HAYES, JR.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Travel in New England

Traveling through the New England states are Mr. and Mrs. Harry George Hayes, Jr., who were married Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church of Birmingham.

The bride, Beverly Anne Jongeward, 807 Chestnut, Birmingham, was given in marriage by her brother, Albert John Jongeward, of Downey, Calif. She is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Albert C. Jongeward.

Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry George Hayes, 18250 Kirkshire, Birmingham. The Rev. Robert S. Graham performed the single ring ceremony.

A white organza princess style street length afternoon dress with sweetheart neckline and short sleeves was chosen by the bride for her wedding. Her veil was of matching organza trimmed with pearls, and her fingerless gloves were of white net.

She wore her mother's pearl earrings, and a single strand of pearls a gift from the groom. She carried a white Bible set off with white orchid and Stephanotis bouquet.

The groom's sister, Mary Elizabeth Hayes served as maid of honor in a pale blue sheer silk afternoon dress with short sleeves. She wore pearl earrings and necklace and white accessories. Her semi cascade bouquet was of red carnations and roses.

Jacqueline Mae and Judith Lee Jongeward, nieces of the bride, served as junior bridesmaids. Their dresses were peach and aqua nylon organza, and they carried matching peach and aqua bouquets.

SHIRING As best man was John Palmer, Detroit. Robert J. Van, Royal Oak, and Walter Randall, Birmingham, acted as ushers.

The groom's mother wore a gray lace over rose taffeta afternoon dress with white and rose accessories. Her corsage was of matching roses.

The reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of Los Angeles city college and member of Beta Sigma Phi and the National Secretaries society, works as private secretary for General Motors Corp., Detroit. Hayes is a building contractor.
