Wing Lake Farms Swimmers Finish Season with Contest

Winding up swimming lessons for Wing Lake Farms, a swimming contest was held. The classes, taught under ARC instructor, John Graupner, held their contest before judges, Lucille Stuckey, Ardis Kenealy, George Sullivan and Helena Sokauer.

Winner in the first beginners class was Linda Jermolowitz. For the second beginners, Joan Zick was victorious.

Sharon Sullivan, Cindy and Claudia Carr, Barbara Ghesquire and Janice Debandt, will receive their Junior and Senior American Red Cross life saving awards upon completion of their tests.

Intermediate swimmer awards went to Jay Debandt, Tommy Sullivan, Janet Zick and Vickie Swauer.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Sullivan, Indianapolis Trail, recently entertained her sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. Russ Cornair of Chatham, N. J. and their four children, Pamela, Renee, Michael and Terry. Together with the Sullivans' own three children, there was a humming household of seven little ones, all seven years old and under, for two fun weeks.

An extensive northwest Pacific motor tour has been completed by the Frank Ghesquire family of Franklin road. The Ghesquires and son David, 15, and daughter Barbara, 13, went first to Glacier Park and then north to Lake Louise, Lake Moraine, Banff and Jasper and then back to Washington state where they stayed about a week.

During their visit to Mt. Rainier, they did some mountain climbing expressly to touch the glaciers. Enroute home, they visited Yellowstone, Big Horse mountain and the Black Hills. They were gone three weeks and covered 6,700 miles.

Buying Spree for Carefree Clothes Precedes Bonnie Nyquist's Tour

There is plenty of hustle and bustle at the Gordon Nyquist home on Old Mill road as Bonnie Nyquist is in the midst of preparations for her trip to Europe. It's been fun buying for her trip and, of course, all clothing must have that special label on it "drip dry".

Mr. and Mrs. Nyquist will drive Bonnie to New York next Monday, in order that she can catch her Pan American plane for Paris Wednesday, Aug. 15. Waiting to meet Bonnie in Paris will be her grandfather, Gustav E. Nyquist of Grosse Pointe.

The barbecue season is upon us and word has it that Rowland H. Starr of Old Mill road broils a delicious rib and steak dinner. Starr agrees that giving barbecue dinners during the summer are so fun and so convenient.

Friday, the Leonard Ors and family, including Bill and Bob, went on a bridge and golfing trip to Charlevoix but met with rain practically the entire time.

They managed a bit of fishing, riding and boating but were forced to return to bridge and golfing. During their absence, grandmothers of both children's families attended to the house.

It was a week of play and relaxation at the Greenbrier, W. Vir. for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thom and their children, Bill and Bob, visited their grandmother in Port Huron.

Large use of the Thoms' Greenbrier visit was to make a personal presentation of a portrait Mr. Thom had ordered which was selected "man of the year" of a Detroit insurance agency.

By train, boat, bus, car and pack horse, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Patterson toured the west coast. They traveled more than 5,000 miles in three weeks going by train to the Canadian Rockies, Banff, Lake Louise and Vancouver. From there they sailed to Victoria and Seattle and then down the coast by train to San Francisco. They had headquarters for a few days while they drove to Monterey, Carmel and Yosemite national park.

The weather was as varied as the mode of travel. At Banff a terrific storm covered the week in spite of warm, sunny days. With the thermometer at 59 degrees in Monterey they were amazed to find the temperature 100 degrees only 25 miles away.

Next week the Pattersons will leave for the east coast where they will visit in Maine.

Bruce Doeren, son of Mrs. Madeline G. Doeren and Joseph Valentine of Lathrup Village returned Tuesday from a two-week cruise and camping trip down the Au Sable river.

Attending the Michigan architects convention on Mackinac Island last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Wright Hitt of Valley Forge. Their son, H. Hitt, is thrilled by his first visit to the famous Grand Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Van Halteren and daughters, Janie and Margie, served their special barbecue chicken Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Smith and their children Patty and Gordon. The Smiths will soon be residents of Foxcroft when their home on Valley Forge is completed in September.

Gail Elizabeth, weighing 6 lbs., 12 oz. was born July 22 to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Haefner of Valley Forge. Four-year-old Jimmy went to his sister home from St. Joseph's Mercy hospital.

Board members of the Foxcroft Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association met at the home of Mrs. H. T. Stoll on Monday last week for coffee. Plans were made for the coming year.

While there, they entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Ashby and their children, Marc and Claudia and Mr. and Mrs. Clair Metten who were vacationing in Grand Rapids. A good rest was the Bonstwick's main objective on their vacation and swimming was enjoyed most by their children Jimmy, Pat, Valerie and David.

Mr. and Mrs. James Traa of Jackson Park Lane have been busy people the past few weeks. Mrs. Traa wrote, directed and acted in a five-act-variety show, followed by a melodrama which was put on at Red Run Golf club. After many hectic nerve-wracking weeks of rehearsals, "Show Boat Night," finally took place Saturday.

The show was put on outside and even though they were hampered by the terrible rain storm, the cleanup squad got busy and the show went on at 11:00 p.m.

Dr. and Mrs. Cass E. Felcy, 1160 Lakshur road, welcomed home their daughters Gail and Sylvia from a two-month vacation in Southern California. On their return, they were feted by their grandmother and other relatives.

Cass, Jr., is also returning from the Notre Dame band camp at South Bend, Ind.

Home from a 22,000 mile trip to Australia and New Zealand are the F. Theodore Harringtons of West Lincoln drive. While it was a business trip for Mr. Harrington, both found time to take in the unusual sights and places found there.

William Behm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Behm of Parkhurst road had a birthday luncheon and theater party Wednesday, Aug. 1. Bill was accompanied by his father and brother, Christine and Jay.

Home again after a week's vacation at Houghton Lake are Mr. and Mrs. James Bestwick of Old Mill road. Even though the weather wasn't the best, they all agreed that it was nice just being away for a while.

The Stephen S. Pages of Cragin drive, moved from Detroit to Lone Pine Hills. They have a young son, Clifford, now two years old. Page is an architect associated with Odell, Hewitt and Luckenback, and the house is his own design. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects, and paints water colors as a hobby.

Mrs. Page is active in the American Association of Social Workers. This family has just returned from a restful three weeks of vacation with Page's parents at their summer home in East Blue Hill, a friendly picturesque resort town near Bar Harbor, Me.

The Dr. John Caldwell family of Bryn Mawr drive in the Braes, moved here from Bedford township in July. They have spent their vacation since then at their new home, getting settled and becoming acclimated to their new surroundings.

Suburbanites Put Finishing Touches to New Homesites

The midsummer lull in activities gives us a chance to catch up with some of our newcomers who have been erecting beautiful homes in the area, many of them inspired by their own training to create originals, and others busy putting on finishing touches in the decorating and landscaping, which make the place uniquely their own.

Still other new residents are the Douglas McGee family, who now live on Kibbrennan drive. They were temporarily at Commerce Lake while awaiting occupancy, having moved from Berkley. They have a daughter, Alicia, 10, and Mrs. Dianne G. both enrolled in Walnut Lake school. The McGees moved in the spring, and have been busy with finishing the interior decorating. McGee is an electrician.

Have you met the Louis Garveys, formerly of Detroit, who moved last week into their new home on Broomfield lane in Bloomfield Farms? The family includes Patrick, 14, who is looking forward to enrolling in Birmingham high school, and Cynthia Ann, 7, who will attend Walnut Lake school.
