

IT'S MAGIC!

Asleep, one's dreams often are inexpressible, and many of them present undesirable conditions. But one's waking dreams are blueprints to be used for the fabricating of one's own life. ...and happier are those who follow "blueprints" that are drawn by the Architect of Good Ideas. One always travels where his thoughts leads him.

...Softmagic water conditioner

Here—at last—is a completely automatic water softener, designed just like your other home appliances to be so automatic that you just install it and forget it! No valves to remember to turn...no service man required...no "partly soft" water. You just add salt twice a year when Softmagic automatically tells you to!

and Softmagic gives you like magic

- Glistening and gleaming dishes, glassware and utensils
- Both water that's wonderful for bathing, shampooing, shaving and complexion
- Whiter, cleaner, softer laundry with longer fabric life and up to 75% soap saving
- Full protection of plumbing, heaters and fixtures to reduce repairs and maintenance Softmagic fits right in with any home laundry scheme—occupies a space only 18" x 24 1/2" x 36". Installation is quick and simple—no special fixtures are required. Softmagic is finished in gleaming baked enamel and porcelain that's easy to keep sparkling new.

Ruth Alden Fashion Theme 'What I Know About Girls'

Theme of the Osteopathic Woman's club annual Ruth Alden fashion show was based on the book "What I Know About Girls." Youngsters of members modeled dresses made or contributed by their parents to the commentary of a personality instead of a description of the frocks.

Mrs. J. M. Yagobian opened the show at Birmingham Country club Wednesday with vocal selections before 42 daughters between the ages of 4 to 14 walked across the platform.

As a show opener Mrs. Lennert Lorentson, commentator, brought out a young Miss, who started kindergarten this year. She was five-year-old Pamela Wyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wyatt of Dorchester, who adores her new baby sister.

PAMELA Tall of Southfield township, the 10-year-old daughter of the T. R. Tulls of Riverside, Southfield township, "quite sophisticated... likes music, draws, takes piano lessons and sings in a choir." Her sister, Cynthia, also modeled.

According to the commentator, Sherry Stephens of Charing cross, is a little bit of Rock 'n Roll and femininity all rolled into one. Her mama made her red and white print frock.

Little four-year-old Wedy Watt wants to be dainty, but her mother reports that she's the T shirt and dandagee style type. "She changes clothing four and five times a day and at present her desire is to be a beauty operator."

OTHER local personalities included Lynn Amalfitano of Ponona Colony drive, Patty and Susan Turner of Meadowlake road, Marsha Thompson and Kay Walker of Lathrup Village.

All the youngsters returned to the stage and sang "Silent Night" with the closing remarks of "That is why it is spring somewhere every time a little girl is born."

MOMS Wrap Gifts For Teen-Agers

Members of Birmingham MOMS were entertained by children from the Oakland County children's home, as part of the program at the club's Christmas party Monday evening in First Baptist church. A skit and individual acts were presented.

As a Christmas project, the MOMS group wrapped 40 gifts for teen-age boys at the home.
