Higher Interest Rates Expected in School Bonds

Bloomfield Hills school bonds go on sale Jan. 14. Stratton School, advised of educational attorney, announced Monday. The bonds are being advertised for sale now and were approved by the voters last September.

Under the prevailing tight money conditions, Brown said it could not be expected that the bonds would have as low an interest rate as previous issues. The 1955 bonds carried an interest rate of 2.8 per cent. He anticipated a definite increase in the upcoming issue. The bonds have been approved by the municipal financial advisory committee at Lansing and by the Office of Public Instruction. They will be used to build an elementary and a junior high school and to purchase four school sites, as well as for improvements at present schools.
