

B'ham AAA Mgr. Attends Conference On 1936 Touring

Douglas Brown, Automobile Club of Michigan's Birmingham division manager, was in Detroit Monday for the annual statewide conference of Auto Club officials on 1936 Michigan touring and touring problems. Assistants accompanying him included James Mot and Cramer Wilson.

Other club managers heard him outline needs and problems of Birmingham motorists. AAA officials briefed him on Michigan highway construction plans, accommodations and touring attractions. Brown got a complete outline of AAA tours by ship, plane, train and bus to tourists' objectives all over the globe.

Now beginning its 40th year of operation, the Michigan Club in 1936 maintained its position as largest auto club in the world with 450,000 members, about ten per cent of total AAA membership.
