BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

BIRD-WATCHERS would have appreciated a scene in front of Mulholland's department store (and directly across from The Eccentric last Thursday morning when a large black bird with a white beak landed in the fresh snow on Woodward avenue. Passer-bys had to wave motorists away from the parking spot until the bird (the variety is still being debated by the staff) decided to fly the coop.

THERE'S A PUN in the name of the Birmingham YMCA group that wisely named itself "The Birmingham Y'S Men's Club," to illustrate how far they carry the idea, we noted a letter from Y's Men's secretary D. C. Gibbins, signed with the closing, "Y'sly yours."

EVERYONE in the Graefeld-Derby area is well aware of Cub Scout's Pack B-23 broom-selling project. Ben Robertson, who has been handling the brooms for the pack, was sorry to remark he had never seen such enthusiastic salesmen as these Cub Scouts. Housewives who have been contacted by these super-salesmen will back up Robertson's statement.

W. CARLETON SCOTT, 5420 Lane Lake, Bloomfield Township, and Chicagoan Otto Seifert, suffered back injuries and are in casts in Mexico City, Mexico, as result of a plane crash Jan. 25, 100 miles north of Acapulco. Scott, coming in for a landing, spotted another plane on the landing strip, and in order to avoid a crash, skidded off the runway and overturned. Two passengers from Mexico suffered only minor injuries. Scott was released from the hospital last week, and is recuperating.

WORD REACHES THIS WANDERER about a letter recently received by the Ivan Doverspikes, 1593 Chapin, Birmingham. Sent by some people they had met while vacationing at the Half Moon Hotel, Montego Bay, Jamaica, it was addressed simply to "Birmingham, USA." This reached the Doverspikes directly and promptly. Could it be that a certain Alabama city with the same name is losing ground?

GUESTS AT THE SUBURBAN Dance club's event Saturday night were afforded some chuckles by clever signs posted by the club's dance committee at the Indianwood Golf and Country club. Carrying out the Indian motif inspired by their new party locale, Peter Schubeck, dance chairman, his co-chairman wife, and able assistants, the John Greens, Max Mordens and Jim Peabodys, posted placards over the bar which announced "Fire-water Sold Here." Another pastboard in the unattended checkroom bade departing dancers, "Happy Hunting."

ONLY ONE-THIRD of the required sum needed to construct a new Ground Observer Corps observation post on E. Maple, just outside city limits, has been subscribed, Acting GOC Chairman Mary Taylor reported this week. "So we're going to place tables again next week in the lobbies of our two local banks—the Birmingham National and Detroit Wa-beek Bank & Trust—where contributions can be made," Miss Taylor said. "We hope you'll stop in and help us pay for this important station in our national defense program." It'll cost $1,500 to build the post, and $541.79 has been subscribed to date.

IN THREE OR FOUR WEEKS, Birmingham city commission will have before it the entire problem and proposed solutions to the traffic snarl at Lincoln-Woodward-Hunter, reports City Manager D. C. Egbert. A couple of the recommendations are going to be to prohibit ALL left turns, and to reopen the Adams crossover through the Woodward island.

Set Armchair Tour Birmingham Y's Men
Monday, Feb. 13 is the date of the Birmingham Y's Men's club "Trip Through 16 States", gathering at which the Rev. Harry O. Martin of First Methodist church will conduct an armchair tour for members and guests. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Birmingham YMCA.

Dr. Martin will speak on "My Trip Through 16 States", using color slides to illustrate a travelogue covering states from Michigan to California. Program chairman is Morgan Barstow.
