MORE AND MORE
people are using Conference Calls to hold family meetings. Conference Calls used to be made chiefly for business purposes, but the word is getting around that they're wonderful experiences, too, for families whose members are miles apart. All you do, you know, is tell the Long Distance operator, "I want to make a Conference Call." You give her the names and telephone numbers. She'll get all the folks on the line at whatever time you specify. Then everyone can speak to and hear each of the others.

The car says GO and the price won't stop you!
