Triple Birthday Celebration Features Tricks by Magician

It was no heat wave that caused Meadowood residents to see white rabbits pop out of a pan of confetti last Saturday. It was Leonardo, the magician, and the occasion was the triple birthday celebration of the Walter Baughman's children, Doris, age 5, David, 7, and Billy, 8.

Thirty members of Lathrup's younger set admired a big cake inscribed with the three names, and lighted by three circles of pink candles.

The soda bar, presided over by Mr. Baughman, did not rush business. Leonardo's magic caused a live bird in a cage to disappear, and a magazine cover to dissolve into a wriggling goldfish.

Two grandmothers, Mrs. Walter Baughman, Sr., of Detroit, and Mrs. John Heal of Birmingham were honor guests. Small guests included Ronnie and Sharon Shroyer, Wayne, Michael and Valerie Maser, David, Dale and Donnie Ewers, Mark and Donnie Wuesterwald, Robert and Michael Wills, Joan, Bob and Jimmy Reamony, Vickie, Nancy and Ann Billings, Jack and Ray Heal.

Mary Ann and Carol Hubby, Patricia and Johnnie Shoemaker, Jimmie Costlow, Joan McArthur, Wayne Brown, Doug Frowmeyer, Jerry Pasentin and Tommy Everson.

Leaving our convention-packed city to the gentlemen in the red hats, Mrs. Sig Cervinski of Rackham joined a group of Detroit sorority sisters who drove to Detroit, Conn. for the annual meeting of Phi Omicron, business and professional women's group.

The convention will be held at the Crivitz country club and side trips will include a visit to the submarine base at Groton. The ladies will return on the 16th.

The J. H. Shoemaker family of Meadowood have been hosts to Mrs. Shoemaker's sister, Mrs. Robert Sleeman and Mr. Sleeman, and their children Jane and Peter, of near Harrisburg, Pa. The Sleemans are returning from a motor trip to Chicago.

Circus clowns courted over the cake and marched around the table at Joan McArthur's seventh birthday celebration. Joan, daughter of the late S. E. MacArthur of Meadowood, entertained last Thursday with games and movies for Doris Baughman, Valerie Maser, Patricia and John Shoemaker and Joann Rajenski.

Mrs. Everell Fisher to Enter 'Old Rarity' in Mackinac Race

Mrs. Everell Fisher and the two Fisher children have been to their summer home at Bois Blanc island near Cheboygan. Mrs. Fisher will be getting back to Thimble Farm on Lone Pine road one day this week to prepare for entry in the Mackinac race. Her boat, "Old Rarity," was forced out of last year's competition when, during the race, the boat's spar was broken by a storm.

Mrs. Fisher's sister, Jane Hart (wife of Lt. Gov. Phil Hart), Lansing, took part in the Powder Puff derby which began at San Carlos county airport in California and ended last weekend in Flint.

Now it is the William Shaws of Jonathan Lane who are Europe bound. They leave this week from Wayne major airport on the non-stop flight to Ireland. Seven weeks will be spent touring the continent. They plan to rent a car so they can see the byways and the off-beat places for some true local color.

Excels in on the agenda, so Paris, Austria, Germany and of course, Rome. Betty Lou Shaw took French lessons at Bloomfield Hills high school and had the whole French class out to her home for a potluck dinner when the term ended. The Shaws plan to catch up with some of these same classmates, many of whom, are now in Europe.

June-born Julie Jackel celebrated five summers on June 25, but the crowd, about 18 young guests, gathered on Saturday for the ice cream 'n' cake treat, big attraction at the A. B. Jackel home on Quarton road was Prince, a handsome horse, who stood untempered hands high. Young guests took turns riding him, and it looked from way up there, so far down to the ground.

Prince, who was borrowed from a friend for the party, stayed around another week after the birthday festivities, and was followed by a string of young admirers, some on bikes, others on foot, when he took his daily outings around the lake road.

The Barclay Moores of Lone Pine Village are saying goodbye. Originally from the east, they will leave soon to make a home in New Jersey. A recent farewell party for them was held at the Frank Reschke home on Ranch lane.

Some of the neighbors who shared the Moores' love for those down-east clam bakes were there—the Bill Broachs, the Jim Griffin, Russell and Pease Frink, the Irvin Brothers, Evid and Millie Hanna and the Guy Warrens. A gift from the guests, a blender, was presented to the Moores as a remembrance.

The Gilbert Lake Protective association holds its annual meeting tonight at Devon Gables, Dinner 7 p.m., and association business begins at 8 p.m.
