

This world's applause is, indeed, an empty and passing reward. Fame, at best, is but little a gift for doing of good, even good things for others. Life's real rewards come from within; from that inner glow and feeling borne in spirit, in conscience.

MRS. WALTER McLAUGHLIN

Heirloom Duchess Lace Accents Bridal Gown

The marriage of Barbara Neal to Walter Clayton McLaughlin took place Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. Robert W. Gibson performed the double ring ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Orchard Lake Country club.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gerald Neal of Brookwood lane, Birmingham. Her father, wore a gown of white tulle's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jeanne Harham McLaughlin of deep collar of heirloom duchesse lace on a tightly-fitted bodice with

New Play to Open At Will-O-Way

"For Love or Money" will open July 31 and play through Aug. 12 at Will-O-Way playhouse, Long Lake road near Telegraph in Bloomfield.

The story by F. Hugh Herbert, is of a charming and unsophisticated miss who wanders, quite by accident, into the life of a blase and worldly matinee idol. Armed only with the impregnable armor of innocence to combat the inflated ego of this unmitigated ham, the fair young maid proves once again that eventually time wounds all heels.

Have You Met . . .

The new residents on Crosswick in Bloomfield township? Dr. and Mrs. C. Gerald Barone, along with Michael, 11, Marilyn, 9, and Patricia, 3, moved from Detroit. Barone, a surgeon, is a member of the Lions, American Medical Assn., Wayne county medical society and Michigan State medical society. The Barone family is interested in photography.

short sleeves. The floor length skirt formed a chapel train. The tiny cap was appliqued with the heirloom lace and held the twofold fingertip veil of silk illusion. Her bridal bouquet was white rubrum lilies and stephanotis.

HER ATTENDANTS were gowned alike in waist length white organza embroidered in tiny sea pink motifs. The empire bodice was fashioned with a crushed band of sea pink satin forming a small bow in the back. Pink straw crowns with tiny pearls completed their outfits. Fastidiously pinned bouquets were carried by the maids. Linda Neal was her sister's maid of honor and classmates at Smith college were Barbara's bridesmaids—Charlotte Hine of Garden City, N. Y., Anastasia Ludlow of Easton, Md., and Mary Kearns of Chicago.

Mr. McLaughlin was his son's best man. The ushers were Richard Hill of Kankakee, Ill.; Duane Baticia of Chicago, John Purvis of Grosse Pointe and Joseph Grayden of Camp of Cincinnati, Ohio.

MRS. NEAL chose delphinium blue peonies with a matching net hat. Toast beige silk organza had beige accessories was worn by Mrs. McLaughlin. Both mothers pinned rubrum lilies to their purses.

The bride wore a brown silk tweed dressmaker suit with a natural straw hat and blond accessories for their wedding trip to the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va. They will reside at Camp Lejeune, N. C., where the groom, a Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps Reserve, is stationed.

GETTING A BRIEFING on the duties of the GO's are a group of women who met last week with Mrs. Melvina Eberle, Mrs. D. R. St. John, Tech. Sgt. Sam Beronja and Spt. Richard Heaton.

Women Pledge to Act As Skywatchers

Today's women are as anxious to contribute their leisure hours to civic and national duties as well as playing bridge and partying. Last week's meeting proved so when a group of ten women met for the reactivation of the ground observer corps.

Mrs. D. R. St. John, 2280 Dorchester, hostess for the meeting, has taken the post of supervisor for Birmingham's Ground Observer Corps. She volunteered last week offering her know-how from her three years on the New Canaan, Conn., corps and 300 hours of work.

EACH of the women who met last week to be briefed on the duties of staff work connected with GOC, pledged to serve two hours each week. Two persons will work as a team for the two-hour stint at an assigned day and time each week.

On hand to explain the duties were Mrs. Melvina Eberle, county supervisor, Sgt. Richard Heaton and Tech. Sgt. Sam Beronja, the air force contact, who will supply the materials to man the post and

Local Artists In UM Exhibit

Several Birmingham area women are among the 175 painters expected to exhibit at the annual amateur art exhibition and regional conference at the University of Michigan.

Sponsored by the UM summer session and extension service, the show will run from July 30 through August 12 in the Rackham building on the Ann Arbor campus. Local artists who have submitted entries are Mrs. Wallace M. Cootts of Wing Lake road and members of the Birmingham Society of Women Painters, Mrs. Donald E. Anders and Mrs. Ralph D. Williams of Haverhill road, Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. Paul N. Averill of Glenzary circle, Bloomfield Village, Mrs. Lloyd Cullen of Farmington, Mrs. J. Vinton Birch of Harmon road and Mrs. V. J. Snyder of Woodland avenue, Birmingham, and Mrs. Clarence Patterson of Cass Lake.

Purpose of the exhibition is to further the creative development of art in Michigan by bringing together a representative group of Michigan painters, largely selected from regional shows held earlier in the year.

A panel of critics will select 12 paintings from the exhibit to show at the 1936 Michigan state fair art show.

Birthdays, anniversaries, guests, births, parties are all news—call the society editor about them.
