REAL ESTATE EXECUTIVE
(Vice-Presidential Caliber)

Major local Realtor, now in the process of expanding and departmentalizing, requires the services of a seasoned real estate man who is an established and proven producer.

He must be capable of directing a sales force of 15 to 20 men and women. His responsibilities will include the listing and sale of new and used homes in steadily increasing volume. He will undoubtedly want to continue his personal selling as well and will be encouraged to do so.

Probably he is a key salesman for a Birmingham organization where further opportunity and progress is blocked by an entrenched management group.

He may be offered the position of Sales Manager or Vice-President (Sales) depending on stature and experience. Reward will be based on substantial over-earnings on a sliding scale with volume. Investment opportunities, both in and outside the company framework, will be opened to him.

This go-getter will have the vision and determination to team with the present officers in building the finest real estate organization in Michigan.

This is not your present company. Write in complete confidence to Eccentric Box 151. Do it now if you are a man willing to meet Opportunity more than half-way.

Police

Professional, not volunteer workers.

"It's your job to get along with volunteers," said Mrs. Mean, adding that Lathrup was a community with many volunteers which was expected to keep cost of government down.

Also brought-out was the fact that professional police could not have solicited easily the $2,500 which residents have given to a fund for youth activities which was a Farnham-sponsored project.
