Gracious Atmosphere Adds To Enjoyment of Concert

By BETTY DUPUIS

Richly carved wood paneling, graceful wrought iron chandeliers and book lined walls in the stately library of Cranbrook house, create a serene listening environment for music lovers. And it was an appreciative audience that gathered there to hear the Wallfisch viola-piano duo presented by Cranbrook Music Guild last week.

Ernst Wallfisch, accompanied by his pianist wife, gave sensitive interpretation to works of Dittersdorf, Schumann, Eastham, Schubert and Enesco. Dory Wallfisch announced each selection with an air of gentle shyness, completely captivating the audience.

Play Music of 'Neighbor'

Her preface to "Introduction and Allegro" by local composer, Clark Eastham, was especially warm. She told the audience that the same composition—played by the Wallfisches that time also—had been chosen to represent music of the US for one of the UNESCO concert series in Paris last summer.

She referred to Mr. Eastham as "our neighbor." This related to the time when, while her husband was playing with the Detroit symphony orchestra, they lived close by, in Ferndale.

At the insistence of both Wallfisches, Mr. Eastham, rose from his seat in the audience to share with the performers the applause awarded his music.

Heard During Intermission

Mrs. Walker A. Williams was there. So were Mrs. Ray E. Hawkinson and the Leonard Lewises. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Weed, Henry S. Booth and Charles Klingensmith were also in the audience.

Mrs. Whiting Raymond and the LeRoy W. Dahlbergs were greeting friends in the foyer during intermission. Mrs. Raymond wore a cherry red stole and a becoming tan brought from Ft. Lauderdale. She and Mr. Raymond, together with the Arthur B. Tiltons, spent a wonderful two weeks there in the ocean front home of Mrs. Harlow N. Davock and the late Mr. Davock, cousins of Mr. Raymond.

While in Florida they had a pleasant visit with the Vincent Nortons, of Lone Pine road; lunching in their Palm Beach home and spending the afternoon at the Norton gallery.

March 17 the Tiltons will be away again, this time sailing for Gibraltar on the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo. Their plans include visits to Spain, London, and Paris, with a stopover as guests of the Paul Parays in their home on the French Riviera.

Extra Gleam at Afterglow

Afterglowers included Mrs. Charles Bay, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Garabrant, Mrs. Gunnar Karlstrom and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Craine.

But there was an extra glow in the fireplace corner—and not from the fire alone—where Mrs. Eliel and Mrs. Eero Saarinen were receiving congratulations from friends who had heard news of their respective son and husband's latest honor.

The subject of conversation was, of course, absent, as he is presently in London conferring with British authorities over preparations to build the new US embassy there—his design having been chosen in the architectural competition conducted by the US State department.

Meanwhile, just to turn the tables, the ladies of the family were expecting a visitor from Europe. Astrid Sampe, director of the handweaving and textile department of the N K department store of Stockholm, Sweden, was to be their weekend houseguest. Miss Sampe is touring the United States looking at textiles and interior designs here. Her visit to Cranbrook is for the purpose of studying American architectural design.

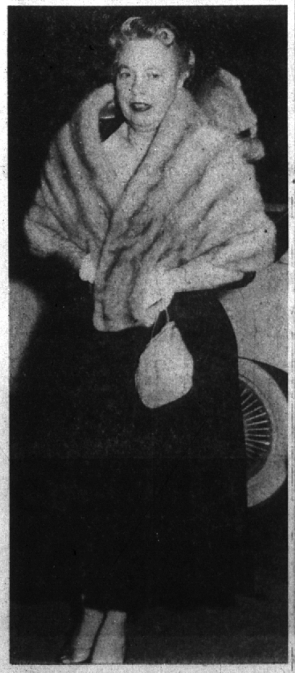
Bride-Elect Busy With Plans, Parties

Bride-to-be Ruth Carol Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Smith of Euclid drive, Walnut Lake, was busy with preperations last week for her Saturday wedding.

She will be married to Edward Ribolin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ribolin, Walnut Lake road.

On Sunday, Feb. 19 Ruth was guest at a miscellaneous shower in Birmingham given by co-hostesses Betty Rhodes and Gail Rowe, at the Rhodes' home on Cedar avenue.

Friday evening the Graham Overgards, Walnut Lake road, entertained the entire wedding party and families. The dinner party followed the rehearsal in the Cedar home chapel at Kirk in the Hills.



SNAPPED as she got out of her car in front of the United Artists theater, Detroit, was Mrs. John Dykstra. She was one of the Birmingham people to attend the premiere of "Oklahoma." The Dykstras live on Glengary road, Bloomfield.
