Bridge Club Begins Daytime Gatherings After 11 Years

"It's just a plain old bridge club," its members say. But the "two tables" of friends since Detroit high school days are getting fancier now. And to make it possible, they're gathering from a widespread area which includes Farmington, Detroit, Ferndale, Royal Oak, Birmingham and Bloomfield.

All young mothers, the group began their monthly bridge meetings in 1945, when their children were in the confining infant and pre-school stages.

REASON for the club's beginning, they say, is because, "We were getting stir-crazy and had to get out of the house once in a while." Get-togethers then had to be held at night, when husbands were at home to "baby-sit."

But recently the club entered a new era. With all the babies now grown to school age, the bridge fans are holding daytime luncheon meetings.

IT WAS Mrs. Bruce Everly's turn to have the group last week. Mrs. Everly, of Rivenoak, Birmingham, held to the new tradition of making the gathering a party affair.

A floral centerpiece of yellow and white daisies spiked with tiny variegated candles decorated the luncheon table.

After cocktails in the living room, guests enjoyed a creamed mushroom and asparagus dish on nattie shells, with salad, coffee and dessert.

LOOKING BACK over the history which led up to their present status, the bridge club members recall a memorable evening back in 1948.

One of their eight stood up beside a bridge table, and informed others she had an announcement. She was expecting an addition to her family, she said.

With that, four more "bridge clubbers" stood up and announced, "Me, too!"

THEIR HISTORY also includes eight meetings during which a teacher gave them bridge lessons in 1950.

"After playing together for eight years," says Mrs. Marcus Arthur, of Dunblaine, Beverly Hills, "we decided to bring in a teacher." "Things haven't been the same since," said Mrs. L. Thomas Owens, of Detroit.

EVERY CHRISTMAS, the group cooperates in preparing a large basket of food, which they take to a needy family.

Other members of the group are Mrs. Harrison Bird, Jr., of Detroit, Mrs. Walter C. Bartels, of Farmington, Mrs. Walter E. Spink, of Royal Oak, and Mrs. Frederick Ruache, of Ferndale.

Most of the members were in the class of 1940 in various Detroit high schools.

Adams School PTA Plan Square Dance

Preparations for the Adams school PTA square dance scheduled for Friday night are being completed by Mr. and Mrs. Harter Williams and their committee.

Committee members are the Jack Giecks and the Bob Dickinsons. Dancing from 9 to 12, as always, will be preceded by a half-hour instruction period.

Music is by the Baumanns and Mildred and Lee Brennan will provide the calls. "Beginner and expert square dancers are invited to attend this dance, which is the second last of the season," the committee has announced.
