Center

not campus-like atmosphere is Thomas D. Church, internationally known as the foremost landscape architect of our day. His book "Gardens are for People" has been reviewed in garden columns by Alice Burlingame and presented to many branches of local garden clubs.

Hundreds of others have contributed to the success of the center but we feel the story would be incomplete without mentioning GM executives, vice president L. C. Goad, John J. Cronin, Harley J.

Local Women Are CWVS Delegates

Delegates and members from this area who will take part in the College Women's Volunteer Service spring meeting and election Saturday at Hoobler lounge, Detroit, are Mrs. John M. Campbell of Gilegany road and Mrs. Myra J. Patterson of Romney avenue, Bloomfield townships; Mrs. Harry C. Schaefer of West 11 1/2 mile road, Southfield township; and Mrs. John Schram, Pilgrim avenue, Birmingham.

Earl, Charles A. Chayne, Roger J. Emmert and Roger M. Kyles. "WORKING as a smoothly functioning team and the total effect is a project of unity... not only did my associates work as a team, but we had the fine cooperation of Smith, Hinman and Grylls, Inc., architect engineers; Bryant and Detwiler Co., general contractors;

Bolt, Beranek and Newman, consultant on acoustics; Richard Kelly, consultant on exterior illumination, and the GM corporation, stressed Saarinen. "Just as people come to Cranbrook because of the complete serenity of architecture and building—they will come to this college-like campus," commented Saarinen, in his relaxed conversation.

Handicapped Needlework Sale

New summer merchandise featuring linens, blanket covers, baby clothes, aprons, unusual toys and needlework produced by home-bound workers of the Detroit League for the Handicapped will be exhibited in a spring sale Friday and Saturday in the home of Mrs. James J. Nance, Lone Pine road, Bloomfield Hills.

Tea will be served throughout the day with Mrs. Theodore Yntema assisting the hostess, Birmingham Junior League members are to act as salesladies. A special corner will be set off for discontinued designs to be offered at bargain basement prices. Hours for the display are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The league for the handicapped has had a retail store in Birmingham a little over a year.

Many area people are on the board of directors of the organization, among them being Mrs. Nance and Mrs. Yntema. Mrs. Don Hunter of Franklin is the president and second vice president is Mrs. Robert Copeland of Hupp Cross road; Mrs. Henry Forster, Jr., of Bloomcrest avenue, serves as corresponding secretary.

Also on the board are Mrs. Walter O. Briggs, Jr., Mrs. Robert Graham, Mrs. Edward Rothman, Mrs. George Squibb, Mrs. Edward Wellock, John Davis and E. A. Schirmer.
