A poster party was given by Judy Weidinger last week for the members of Kappa of Phi Sigma Tau. The posters were for the bake sale held Thursday at Northwood shopping center.

BHHS cheerleaders were leading cheers around the bonfire Thursday evening. Students attending yelled for about 20 minutes, then watched a Frisbee football dummy burning. The loud yelling symbolized a great desire for victory in the game Friday.

Bloomfield students went $17.30 beyond their goal of $200.00 for the United Foundation collection this year.

The "Inkspot," junior high newspaper at Bloomfield, recently started functioning. The paper will be published at least once a month by students under the direction of Misses Doris Balwinski and Diane Harris, teachers at the school.

The staff is headed by Paul Kasameyer, who is assisted by Barbara Stitzer. The rest of the staff has respective pages to write for. Staff members are Bob Stressem-Bentler, Lynn Spedding, Chris

Serve as Chairmen At MEA Conference

Several Birmingham and Southfield school system instructors and principals served as chairman of group meetings for Oakland county teachers during Monday and Tuesday's Michigan Educational association three-county conference.

They included Lillian B. Clawson, art director, Barnum junior high school, Birmingham; Birmingham high school teacher Charles B. Euel; Baldwin school teacher Lawrence D. Sauvage; and Birmingham high school teacher and coach, Tom Carson.

Other Birmingham chairmen were Ross A. Wagner, Birmingham high school principal, and Arthur Roller, Baldwin school principal.

Southfield chairmen were Dan Julien, Southfield high school speech teacher; Edna S. Weaver, director of Southfield township school libraries, and Don Otto, Townsend.

Cranbrook Corridor

By KEN CAMERON

"The early bird gets the worm" was the theme of Page hall's winning homecoming display. Displays were judged Saturday before the football game, and Page won over very strong competition. Jim Wright accepted the prized "Little Brown Jug" on behalf of Page.

With election time drawing near, politics have taken over the spotlight at Cranbrook. Yesterday a mock election was held. The school was divided into 20 precincts, each with an electoral vote. Results are not yet known, but will be published in tomorrow's issue of the Crane.

Mr. W. R. Ueilli has revived the Cranbrook Debating club, which dissolved during the war years. Although a schedule has not been drawn up yet, four members of the club are in the midst of a political debate now.

Yesterday, Bill McGaughy and John Hartman ably presented the affirmative arguments of the Republican party. Tomorrow, Fred Feichter and Dick Rosenthal will defend the Democratic party.

Mr. Ueilli hopes that Cranbrook will regain its high standing in debating clubs around the Detroit area.
