at Wayne State university. Miss Mack has used seed pods, leaves and other parts of plants for imaginative decorations, gilded or painted or arranged for purely decorative effects.
Beginning Dec. 10, Institute staff members are combining to put on an exhibition of photographs taken in the course of their work, including everything from children to volcanos—the latter taken by Director Robert T. Hart, who is now in Pakistan setting up several museums of science under the UNESCO program.

Yule Tales Begin
Schnitzle, Schnitzle and Schnitzle, a tale of the Austrian Tyrol, starts the Christmas stories which will be told on Saturday story hours at Baldwin public library this year. Also slated for the 10:30 to 11 p.m. story hour this week is "The Little Green Elf's Christmas." Stories will be told by Mrs. Kathleen Burgess.

Exhibit and Sale

CRANBROOK — The annual Christmas exhibition and sale of student work opens at Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries tomorrow evening, from 8 to 10 p.m. It continues Saturday from 2 to 5 and 8 to 10, and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. The hours are the same for the following Saturday and Sunday.

Student-made objects for exhibition and sale are first displayed in the various studios, for faculty acceptance; pottery, jewelry and metalworking, design, weaving, painting, sculpture, graphics. Also on display are unusual Christmas cards, small sculptures, pots, and jewelry.
Nancy Fisher of Franklin is in charge of sales, and Charles Holzbog directs advertising. Proceeds from the sale go to the individual students, many of whom depend upon their own efforts for tuition and board at Cranbrook academy.

"Quick as a bunny" doesn't hold true for the rabbit inhabitants of Beaver Island, Mich. Conservation officials have imported 11 woodchucks in hopes that they'll dig burrows suitable for use by the lazy rabbits, taken to the island two years ago.
