

When you witness a man run a fast race and break would record recall that once he couldn't even creep or toddle. It required time and practice to learn to walk, then run, then run faster than any other. It also takes time and practice to be a good man or woman.

300 Costumed Parents, Children Participate in Eastover's Party

Halloween evening at Eastover school made a mighty big hit with parents and small fry. Everyone got into the act. Costumes of all descriptions made it very difficult for judges.

A parade in the school's multipurpose room preceded a tour through the "fun house" where there was much shrieking and wailing. Mrs. Thomas Summers, a new resident, had her French poodles and pups perform. Many prizes were awarded. Taking the prize for the "family group" were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark, dressed as playing cards, and sons, Donald and Doug as dice.

Feid-Hudson Rites Read Saturday in Cincinnati

St. Edwards church, Granville, Ohio, was the scene of the double ring rites Saturday uniting in marriage Norma Feid Hudson and Robert Byrnes Feid of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Hudson of North Adams road, Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob T. Feid of Weehawken, N. J., are parents of the groom.

There was a very accommodating bump who helped throughout the evening, and to everyone's surprise turned out to be William McGuire, the school principal. A buffet supper was served some 300 persons attending.

In September, when all the big brothers and sisters returned to school, there was left a little group of three and four-year-olds who wanted to go to school too.

This gave a group of mothers, headed by Mrs. Paul Taylor, the idea of forming a nursery school in the Leonard Lane subdivision for two mornings a week, with each mother giving her time to the program.

Now there are happy, busy little youngsters trekking off to "their school" each day. The school meets in the recreation room of the East Taylor's home. Mothers working on the project are Mrs. Fritz Frick, Mrs. William Reichard, Mrs. Peter Robinson, Mrs. Alan Yates.

The James Hutchinsons were quite surprised when they walked into the Milton Fishbecks' home on Melvern road, to find the dinner party to which they were invited, a surprise party for them.

The occasion was to celebrate the Hutchinsons' 25th wedding anniversary. The 20 guests were old friends who have met regularly for the past 26 years. The Hutchinsons were the last of the group to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

The Hutchinsons are also newcomers to North Adams. They moved into their new home on Watlies road last week. They have a son, James II, now attending Michigan State. Mr. Hutchinson is a production manager with the Acme Paint Co.

A coffee was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Steacy of Pine Hill drive last week. Those attending met the honor guests, William Broomfield, Congressional candidate and Farrell Roberts, candidate for state House of Representatives.

Mrs. Milton Fishbeck of Melvern road entertained at a bridge luncheon last week. The group, Charwood residents, meets twice a month. Attending were Mrs. Robert Simpson, Mrs. Randall Mulvany, Mrs. Glenn Fisher, Mrs. Douglas Clark, Mrs. D. S. Fleming, Mrs. James Hutchinson, Mrs. Donald Hoskin.

Off for a weekend of hunting at their cottage in the thumb of Michigan were the Clyde Moneys of Suterne Hill drive and their guests, the John Almons, Ken Martens, Joseph Brnsta, Michael Koyack and Irene Stevens. Miss Stevens, from New York, is staying on for a few days as their houseguest.

The John Wolfs of Juniper court spent a few days in Chicago recently visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jerome Wobrock and children, Wendy and Polly, former Birmingham residents now residing in Park Forest. They also attended the Notre Dame game while there.

MRS. ROBERT B. FEID

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob T. Feid of Weehawken, N. J., are parents of the groom.

Following the noon ceremony solemnized by Rev. A. L. Winkler, in the presence of the immediate families, a luncheon reception was held in Granville Inn.

Norma chose a ballerina length bridal gown of chantilly lace over tulle, accented by a tulle cummerbund terminating in a large bow at the back of the bouffant skirt. The V-necked bodice featured long sleeves, pointed at the wrists.

Waist length illusion veiling cascaded from her headpiece of lace embroidered in opalescent sequins and pearls. White shattered carnations and fuji mums were combined for her bouquet.

BRONZE, white and yellow mums were used for the bouquet of the matron of honor, Mrs. Thomas Winans, of Cincinnati. Her peacock blue headband of velvet leaves matched her ballerina length princess style gown of French tulle tulle.

Walter S. McPhall of Birmingham served as best man.

A corsage of pale pink roses and champagne colored accessories accented Mrs. Hudson's mink brown satin sheath and jacket. The mother of the groom selected a rose-wood peau de soie sheath with seige accents and cream colored roses.

THE NEWLYWEDS are honeymooning in Lexington, Kentucky. Norma's going-away costume was a blue wool dress with brown accessories. They will make their home in Cincinnati.
