

Election Night Gatherings Are Neighborhood Affairs

Several local election parties were given Tuesday evening, and in many neighborhoods, people just gathered informally to listen to results.

The Roy Carikens and the Edgar Questa co-hosted a party and mid-night supper for 50 of their Birmingham lane neighbors. Nancy Birmingham invited 24 members of the Spot Lighters club to her home. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Roberts had a family dinner party and then invited a few Franklin friends to stop in later in the evening.

The mixed bowling group, which meets regularly Tuesday evenings, didn't want to miss any of the excitement, so they planned their own party.

After a "fun night," with special prizes for high scorer, high series, and to listen to refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Scott organized a surprise home warming for Mr. and Mrs. Jack LeClaire, who now live on German Mill road, after which the crowd went to meet their Wellington road neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Alger Clark, also on a short holiday.

Visiting the Don Hacker family on a short holiday. Mr. and Mrs. George Huffman have returned from a week in Atlantic City where they attended the convention of the dairy equipment manufacturers. Mr. Huffman is on the association's board of directors.
