

Claire Schowalter Is Saturday Bride

Our Lady Queen of Martyrs church was the scene of the wedding rites Saturday morning uniting in marriage Claire Virginia Schowalter and Harry R. Wills. Following the ceremony, they greeted guests at a breakfast reception in the Meadowbrook country club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Schowalter of Fairway drive, Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wills, Jr., of Ferndale, are parents of the groom.

CLAIRE chose for her wedding day a gown of white silk peau de soie designed with long sleeves and a chapel train. Seed pearls and paillettes trimmed the neckline, lace Sabrina neckline and paillettes.

Her double tiered illusion veil was secured by a matching lace cap and she carried a prayer book adorned with an orchid and sprays of stephanotis.

Mary Lee Schowalter was her sister's honor maid and bridesmaids were Carol Riley and Bernadine Sink of Detroit.

Their frocks were fashioned of coral nylon chiffon over taffeta, styled on princess lines with portrait necklines. White full mummy and trailing ivy were arranged for their bouquets and completing their ensembles were tiny coral velvet hats trimmed with seed pearls.

BEST MAN was the groom's brother-in-law, James Podzikowski and ushers were Robin McKee and Vern Allen, all of Royal Oak.

With her blue and gold velvet sheath Mrs. Schowalter wore gold accessories and a purse corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Wills pinned green cymbidium orchids to the neckline of her rose beige silk taffeta and lace gown. Her accessories were brown.

The bride selected black accents for her burnt orange-colored wool going-away suit. She and her husband are honeymooning in northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula and will make their home in Ferndale.

HORSEFEATHER FUZZ

Everybody talks 'bout horsefeathers,
Tis somethin' I don't understand,
I ain't never seen no horse with feathers,
An' I don't b'lieve thar's none in the land!

Good land sakes! If horses had feathers,
Wouldn't they be a queer sight?
An' long in August, when they was moultin',
They would surely give us a fright!

An' then agin, if horses had feathers,
Shouldn't they oughta have wings?
'Pears to me, too, they oughta have web feet,
Bills an' gizzards an' all sech things.

An' kin you imagine a little, wee colt
A-covered all over with fuzz?
An' should his mother give milk or corn,
An' would he know jest which 'twas?

Horsefeathers—horsefeathers—horsefeathers!
An' horses that take to the wing!
The more I hear 'bout them horsefeathers,
The more I bet there ain't no sech thing!
