Adlai Editorial Brings Criticism

To the Editor:

Relative to your editorial, "How low must a candidate go to win votes?" A vehement attack on Adlai Stevenson. It is obvious that you would praise the candidate of the Republican Party no matter who he was and it follows that the candidate of the Democratic Party is a moron.

It has been that way as long as I can remember. You might even cite a case where you favored a Democrat. Nothing I can say will alter your point of view. Although I feel that a newspaper that serves a community made up of both points of view would tend to be fair and present the picture as it is, you own the newspaper and thus present your version.

ONE REMARK, however, in your editorial was disturbing, yes even shocking to all decent people. Quote, "We listened to what Mr. Stevenson said, and more importantly, HOW he looked when he said it." Even you (I hope) will admit that we see exactly what we look for. You looked for the devil and you found him. Shame on The Eccentric. I suggest that the writer of this editorial pay a little more attention when he next attends church. He writes not like a true Christian.

BERNARD EDELMAN,
Huntington Woods, Mich.

(Editor's Note: The editor of The Eccentric is an independent Republican, who has supported some Democratic candidates and parts of their programs.

In former U.S. Senator Premises Brown's last campaign we gathered together a group of Michigan editors to support him. This newspaper was the first to endorse Murray D. Van Wageningen when he ran for Oakland County drain commissioner against a Republican incumbent. "Fat" later going up to higher public offices.

We suggest that Mr. Edelman re-read the editorial he criticized: in the first sentence of the third paragraph we said: "Here is a man (Adlai Stevenson) who, basically, is sincere and honest. He knows that two plus two is never anything but four.

Four years ago he did reveal considerable intellectual honesty when he ran against Ike, and lost." In other paragraphs of the criticized editorial we also pointed out that the Republican party holds no sole patents on those wholesome qualities that make mankind worthy of preservation and development.

While we welcome Edelman's letter, we also suggest that he hold some solemn communion with his own soul on the subject of "partisanship." Perhaps he may then come up with a less emotional reaction to what he reads during this political campaign.)

Steal $1,700 Worth Of Drills, Motors

TROY—Thieves broke into Tony Paul's gas station and boat supply store at 47 E. Maple early last Wednesday and took $1,700 worth of equipment, according to Troy police.

Missing were three new, and three used mercury outboard motors and two electric drills. The drills were recovered later on Van Courtland where they had been abandoned.

Police said the burglars pulled loose some boards nailed over a broken window to gain entry.
