Fathers, Sons Successful Hunters as Season Opens

The only challenge left in pheasant hunting would be a "bring 'em back alive" contest for boys and dads of Worthington road.

Season's opening day found Randy Smith and his dad Ray near Bad Axe where they brought down two fullers, sons Jim and Bill, neighbor Bob Kasmeyer, found Macon county teaming and a d brought home five birds and one squirrel. Billy went for squirrel, and a squirrel he got.

Cecil Cook and son just outside Bad Axe where they said there were easily 100 hunters literally lined up waiting the 10:00 a.m. deadline when their shots could legally ring through the woods.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Cason, formerly of Worthington road, will be happy to know that they are occupying their new home in Northridge, a suburb of Burbank, Calif.

Board meeting of Wing Lake WNFO will convene at the home of Mrs. Cecil Cook, Worthington road, Monday at 10:00 a.m. For the November meeting, the membership will attend a joint meeting at the Birmingham Community House.

Unwanted birds, collected through the summer from vacation, barbecues and ice cream, are being worked off several areas. Mrs. Walter Stecker and Mrs. Richard Peters attend swimming and sports classes every Tuesday and Thursday evening at the Pontiac YMCA.

Mrs. Verne Cason, formerly of Worthington road, and Mrs. Douglas Jocelyn are rounding up a sizeable group to attend the exercise, dance and sports class Tuesday night.

Orchard Bend Neighbors Gather at Robert Athay Home

The Robert Athays gave a Sunday buffet supper for neighbors residing on Orchard Bend. The road, south of Carriage road and now almost completely occupied, is considered by its people to be one of the fastest to grow in the area.

The Athay party brought together the John Kins, Dr. and Mrs. Hal Aulie, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irwin, the Wrights, Manvels and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Towns.

Newcomers, the J. Robert Howlands and the Joseph Stareys were also present.

The Howlands moved to Orchard Bend from Beverly Hills, Robert and Helen have three boys, John, 12, Frank, 8 and Paul, 8 months. Mrs. Howland's hobby is sewing, and she is fond of bridge. Robert Howland is with Ford Truck and Coach.

The Joseph Stareys of Orchard Bend could be called the musical Stareys for the twins, Robert and Ronald, 15, with their brother, Raymond, 13, make up a trumpet trio. The boys play with the Bloomfield Hills high school band, the Parks and Recreation band and the All-city band (Detroit).

Joseph Starey, who is with the Detroit board of education, plays the "sax," flute and bassoon, and he still finds time for a little photography.

The Herbert Carrs of Maple road returned last week from their southern trip. They were at Atlanta, Ga., and New Orleans, where they absorbed all the quaintness and color of the French quarter.

They loved the restaurants with their courts and tiny ornate fountains. They sampled the food of Breagans and Gallatoire's, drank European chocolate and nibbled dairy pastries.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr were in the Thursday evening audience for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's opening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. William Neef have moved into their new home on Gilbert Lake road. The Neefs have three sons, David, 6, Stephen, 5 and Eric, 2. Mrs. Neef sings in the choir at the Congregational church and works with the youth choir there.

Mrs. Joseph Tighe of Hills drive was a member of Holy Name Altar society. Among the guests were Mrs. Howard Schenck, Cottrells, Mrs. George Arnold, South Midway and Mrs. Sidney McPherson of Thorncreek.

Thorncreek subdivision is organizing a protective association. Residents met recently at the home of Fred Hendricks to discuss plans. The group will meet at a future date for the election of officers.

Costumed Small Fry Parade Before Area Party Sunday

When strains of Punky Pumpkin blare forth at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon it will mean the start of the small fry's annual Halloween parade. Since the little goblins like to parade, the route this year will be longer.

The group will gather at the corner of Plumwood and Bellevue trail, proceed up Bellevue to Smallwood and over to the backyards of the Kennes, Kittle and Chuckie Deuel.

Witches will be on hand to serve cider, doughnuts and favors. The parade is sponsored by the Valley Woods Women's association who will have grown-ups turn out to watch the parade.

Returning Tuesday after a five day visit to New York City were the Bert Gatewads and Mrs. Mary Deuel's first visit. This was Mary Deuel's first visit to the big city in six days were filled with sight seeing.

Supper club at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening saw several Valley Woods couples dining together. Mr. and Mrs. John Calhoun of Bellevue trail thought it an excellent way for neighbors attending the church to meet as a group.

Enjoying dinner and the speaker were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nylund, the Ken Kittles and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeNio.

Garden Club Gives Bridge Series To Benefit Home Lighting Contest

West Beverly Garden club will begin a series of three bridge-benefits next week to raise money for prizes in an area Christmas lighting contest which the club will sponsor.

The first game, at the Bedford home of Mrs. Donald Kalmbach, will be held the afternoon of Nov. 1. Beginning at one o'clock Nov. 8, Mrs. Harlan Ritts of Riverdale drive will be hostess for the second game and Mrs. Martin Hoover, also of Riverdale, will open her home on the evening of the 14th for the last game.

Tickets are available for the last two games and may be purchased from any garden club member or from Mrs. J. James Shank, president of the club, 19100 Warwick.

Mrs. Carl F. Hasse on Devonshire was hostess to a meeting of alumni from the Chaffee Noble school of speech last Thursday. The group, with 20 present, heard Mrs. Clifford Ketchum, president of the Detroit story teller league, tracing its beginnings back to the Egyptian era, through Bible days and up to the present. For further entertainment, several members participated in the presentation of two radio-skits, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Hasse recently returned from a plane trip to Ottawa and a visit with friends at St. Margaret's convent in Alexandria, followed by a visit to Montreal, her childhood home.

Martin Hoover of Riverside has added an elk head to his hunting trophies after a recent hunting trip to Catalist, near Helena, and Bear lake in Montana. In addition to the elk, Mr. Hoover also bagged a deer and an antelope. Two bear rugs adorn the recreation room floor, trophies from a last year's hunting trip to Alaska, attesting to his prowess as a hunter.

A child study club, a new group recently formed in the Birmingham Congregational church, held its second meeting, with 27 members present for lunch last week at the Norchester home of Mrs. V. H. Lamm. Robert Freese, director of the round table for interdenominational council of Detroit churches, spoke on child development.
