GAA Open House Slated Tonight In BHS Gymnasium

Girls' athletic association will hold open house in the Birmingham high school gym tonight from seven to nine for any girls interested in becoming members. General chairman is Pixie Yingling; refreshments, Lynn Garwood and Diana Jackinlowice. Plans for the evening include a business meeting conducted by Ginger Bachus, president, followed by sports entertainment consisting of volleyball, basketball, badminton, ping-pong and trampolines.

SPECIAL EDUCATION for handicapped children was given a boost in the Birmingham school district this fall with the opening of two rooms to instruct the handicapped—one room at Beverly school, the other at Adams. Miss Genevieve McArdle, (above) special education teacher, has charge of instruction at Beverly school. Partially paid for by county funds, the class is open to Oakland county youngsters outside the Birmingham school district.

Southfield High Notes

Senior class candidate for homecoming queen, Sue Yager, was subject to same unique advertising yesterday at Southfield high when devoted backers carried her from class to class all day in a rickshaw made by fellow students.

Twelve girls have been selected from Southfield's various clubs, organizations and classes, with each group backing its selection with posters and publicity. An election will take place on Oct. 9, but results will be kept secret until the big Oct. 12 dance which will follow an afternoon football game with Van Dyke. A court of six girls will be chosen to serve with the queen.

SOUTHFIELD'S newly formed Pop club has chosen as its representative Sue Deem. Carlene Dronowski is the selection of the Key club. Varsity club has named Sue Westergaard, Connie Wardle represents the junior class, with Bonnie Bennett representing student council and the freshman class. Roberta Kennedy is the selection of the Business club, Pat Furstenburg, Latin club, Sandy Youness, Spanish club, Mary Ellen Olson, French club, Elaine Covera, sophomore class and Dana Douglas, H-Y.

Last year's queen, Marilyn Starkey, will be a member of the new queen's court. Newly elected student council officers are Ed Ward, president; Margaret Gray, secretary; Edward Kennedy, vice president, and Elaine Parker, treasurer. Freshman class officers are Judy Vogt, president; Danny Shaw, vice president; Barbara Drozinski, secretary and Kathy Spooner, treasurer. Members elected to the freshman executive board are Robin Jay, Lynda Mordin and Pat Courville.

Edna Weaver, Southfield high librarian is grateful to Mrs. Madelon Schnable and Miss Mary Lou Lake for their recent gifts to the library covering biography, history and an outstanding set of foreign language dictionaries. Attending an employment coun-
