Executive Board Makes Library PTA Project

Executive board of the Birmingham high school PTA has voted, for the second year, to make the school library the PTA project. This decision was based on the continuing need to raise the library to the high standard of the rest of the school facilities.

Last year PTA membership dues purchased an Encyclopedia Americana, 12 books on home economics, 12 on social and natural sciences, five on English literature and others on language, music, and art, according to Mrs. Norman B. Weston, PTA library chairman.

Since there is no money-making project at the senior high level, parents can make their contribution to the library simply by joining the PTA.

Mrs. Carl Ingraham, PTA membership chairman, stresses "You may help the high school library even more by giving a little more. A really good library is a distinct advantage to each and every student."

Parents may join the high school PTA at the October or November meetings or may mail a check directly to Mrs. Ralph W. Moxley, 1420 Bates street, Birmingham, making the check payable to Birmingham high school PTA. Post cards announcing PTA meetings are mailed to all parents.
