FRANKLIN—Entering a tray of Christmas cookies at the Michigan State Fair, Harry R. Allen, Jr., 27, 27375 Wellington road, came home with a red ribbon as second place winner.

The cookies, Allen said, owe their success to flavor rather than the usual "feminine" decorations. He also entered his Scotch shortbread, using a recipe more than 100 years old.

Allen insists that cooking is not a hobby with him, he merely wants to prove that men are good cooks. On occasion he does cook dinner, but most of the time leaves the kitchen to his wife, a home economics teacher in the Detroit school system, and an excellent cook in her own right.

LAST YEAR Mr. Allen won fourth place with his cookies and the year before his fruit cake also placed.

The Allens, who moved to Franklin from Detroit about a year ago, live in a charming home which they designed themselves. They have successfully combined modern with early American.

It wasn't enough that young Freddy and Judy Ewald were fortunate to see the New York stage hit, "My Fair Lady" (no available seats until February), but they got Jack Dempsey's autograph, saw the Rockettes, the Empire State building, and were selected to participate on CBS's afternoon quiz show, "The Big Payoff."

Fourteen-year-old Judy sat on the big throne while brother Freddy, under the glare of the bright lights and the camera's eye, tried to work his way up to that week was that the benefiting property owners were not paying for the sewer improvements, but that the township as a whole would have to pay the allocation, according to a recent state act.

CLAUDE H. Stevens, Detroit bonding attorney, said the authority decided over a year ago that the area (440 acres) would be left out of the drainage area, and that to include it in now would mean an additional cost of $2,500,000 to change the sewer's design.

Southfield board a year and one-half ago made a resolution declaring that they did not want to include the 352 acres in the 12-Town drain area.

Storm water from 'those 440 acres which, as Sweden put it, "shrink to 352 acres" will be run to the west and into the Evans ditch and eventually, into the Rouge river.

ADJUSTMENT of the error in the Murray drain, where some money has already been paid by Southfield for both sanitary and storm water flow, and dropping of the 352 acres from the storm water system, may differ the difference of $457,000, said Sgum.

"I'm satisfied with the storm water solution," said Sgum. "We haven't looked into all the details of the sanitary system yet." Sweden said he still objected to making the township-at-large pay for the system, but to fight it would have to test the constitutionality of the 1956 act in the Supreme Court. "The Supreme Court hasn't been too good to townships lately," said Sweden.

responsible directly to the electorate of the city.

4) CITY MANAGER—The Dec. 12 charter contained the provision that a city manager would be in charge of the service departments of the city. The present proposed charter provides for a city administrator.

While I previously advocated the strong city manager form of government and a manager who would be responsible for all administrative and service departments of the city, the city administrator form of government appears to me to be the most advantageous. Under it, it is not possible for any one man to dominate or control city affairs.

The city administrator becomes a co-ordinator between the council and the various department heads. A man well trained in governmental administration, finance and civic requirements can render an invaluable service and establish in Southfield a well-organized, efficient city government.

IN GENERAL, it is my opinion that a community-wide initiative size 80 ft. width) which will protect residential building and prevent rows of 40 ft. lots, a mayor with veto power over what he deems to be a city council and the establishment of checks and balances in city government contained in the proposed charter, make it one that will give more protection to each people who will be governed by it.

It is still my opinion today that it will be to the advantage of Southfield citizens to accept incorporation for the entire area of 440 ft. lots, a mayor with veto power over what he deems to be a city council and the establishment of checks and balances in city government contained in the proposed charter, make it one that will give more protection to each people who will be governed by it.

TO MY mind, it does provide tighter controls over city affairs and more power in city government in your hands—the voters of Southfield. It is my request to you that you use that power wisely and I urge you for your own best interest over the years to continue to approve the charter on Dec. 3.

If at all possible, Southfield should unite as one community, everyone should contribute a share of his or her time to making Southfield a model city and one which all of you can be proud to say, "My contribution is making it so."

The very best of luck and wishes to you in your new city of Southfield.

Sincerely,
HENRY M. DEMEYER

Millerville are home after a one-week stay at Gratiot Inn. Recent guests of the Maucks were Mr. and Mrs. John H. McIntyre, who with their daughter, Patty, were here from Philadelphia.

The Gilbert Lake Protective association met last week at Harold McCracken's home on Shadow lane for the election of new officers. Ed Hollenbeck was elected president; Carlton Scott, vice president; Harry Aten, secretary, and Ben Hardesty, treasurer.

The George McCutcheons of Golfview with their four young-sters headed up the station wagon (included were several pounds of home made cookies) and headed up Canada way for some outdoor living at Clear Lake. Weather was nasty; trout fishing, good.

In Lone Pine Village, Mrs. R. K. Hesperger, who has been vacationing, returned home this week from Port Austin.

For the twelfth straight year, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Townsend, Jr. and son, Bob, vacationed at the seashore in Oronquit, Me. A lobster boil and attendance at summer theatre performance of "The Seven Year Itch" with Art Carney were high points this year.

En route the Townsends visited in Rowayton, Conn., where Mrs. Townsend's sister, Mrs. Douglas Reinhart—formerly of Birmingham—resides with her husband and two children, Mary Barr and Gretchen. Young Bob had his first experience here with salt water fishing.

An early start home permitted the base-ball loving Townsends family to stop at Williamsport, Pa., where the World Series semifinals for little league baseball were being played.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hester and daughter, Anne, 15, 433 Woodward, were visited recently by Mrs. Hester's brother and family, the M. W. Crons and son from Arlington, Va. Ten year old Gary was most impressed with Greenfield Village and a trip to Canada.

On Oct. 27, Mrs. Hester and Anne entered at a luncheon cook-out in their yard in honor of Mrs. William Finnell of 15542 Buckingham. The Finnells and children, Libby and Billy moved to Westfield, Mass. Saturday.

Mr. Finnell will assume new duties as staff assistant manager in charge of Diesel sales for the American Bosch division.

Other guests present at Mrs. Hester's to wish the Finnells happiness in their new home, were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Nunez and children from Garden City and Mrs. Paul Annette and Mrs. Joseph Simoni and children, David, Craig and Susan from Beverly Hills.

Mrs. Edwin Schreck was hostess at a bridge-luncheon in her Reed home in honor of her sister, Mrs. Mary Lott of Fairfax, Va. Present were Mrs. Robert Reed, Mrs. William Ronsier, Mrs. J. Shurtliff, Mrs. Leonard Keli, Mrs. Lionel Cross, Mrs. Robert Ross, Mrs. Morris Hopper, Mrs. Don Thomas, Mrs. Richard Blackhall and Mrs. Gust Headblom, Jr.

A dinner guest recently at the John Naylon's home on Sheridan was Mr. Selim Seel from Baghdad, Iraq. Mr. Seel came to this country to attend the University of Detroit and graduated with Naylon's son John in June.

'Judging Pointers' Tonight's Topic At Garden Club

EAST BEVERLY—"Some Judging Pointers" will be the topic of our guest speaker, Mrs. Lindsey Gay, of Detroit, at the opening meeting of the East Beverly Hills branch of the National Farm and Garden association this evening. Gay, a member of the North Rosedale Garden Club which is affiliated with the Federated garden clubs and of the Detroit WNGF, is an accredited flower arrangement judge, and has received many awards for her own entries.

NOT ONLY has she served as a judge in flower shows around Detroit and suburbs but throughout the State. In her talk, she will emphasize the points judges particularly look for in "blue ribbon" arrangements.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Edward Crona, 32050 Sheridan. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Joseph Crona, Mrs. G. R. Henzman and Mrs. David Knapp.

Flower show will be held with each member bringing a flower arrangement using flowers from her own garden.
