

Mideast Officials To Review Crisis At School Seminar

CRANBROOK — The controversial area of the Middle East will undergo close study April 25 and 26 when Kingswood and Cranbrook students hold their fourth annual world affairs seminar with foreign officials from Middle Eastern countries.

The seminar is co-sponsored by the history departments of the two schools under guidance of instructors Grace Larsen, Kingswood, and Ben Snyder, Cranbrook. Snyder says, "The seminar is designed to offer students stepping stones into the world of international relationships through informal sessions with experts."

These experts, each of whom will present his country's point of view toward the Middle East situation, are Masir Hani, cultural attache, Embassy of Iraq, Washington; Willie Morris, first secretary, British Embassy, Washington; Dr. Salah El Din Tewfik, cultural attache, Egyptian Embassy, Washington; Jamal A. Sa'd, research officer, Arab States delegation office, New York; Yekutiel Hugh Ortel, information attache, Embassy of Israel, Washington; and Professor A. Lohanov-Rostovsky, University of Michigan.

Conduct Initiation For Redford Group

Recently ten Birmingham high school National honor society members went to Redford Union high school to induct candidates into the newly reorganized Redford Union chapter of the society.

Participating in the service, the same one which was given at Birmingham, were speakers Ken Higgins, chairman; Sally Hanson, secretary; Beverly Ford, character; Dave Karno, scholarship; Sue Tabor, leadership.

Also on the program were Frank Wilson, Judy Kronin, Martha Hill, Fred Finkemaier, pages, and Tom McDaniel, herald.

Contest Winners

The Princeton Prep shop of Birmingham has made it possible for two lucky Birmingham high school seniors, Klaus Farsch and Tom Kelly, and their dates to go to the Hawaiian room of the Hotel Lexington for dinner April 24 when the Washington group is in New York. These two boys were winners of a contest conducted by the business firm.

Other winners were Sue Kennedy, Jay Miller, Joy Oswald and John Risk.

The following students received the highest honors for academic grades the last six weeks, and are to be commended for maintaining such a high average as all A's and B's. Next graders are Beverly Balfour, Rowe Balmer, Jean Common, Joanne Deer, Julie DeVlieg and Sue Fry.

Others are Deanna Laughlin, Nancy Little, Tom Maile, Linda Mitchell, Bonnie Sinclair and Mike Zaewig.

Sophomores with this honor are Lucile Barnes, Phyllis Drummond, Hobbi Irvine, Laurel Kimbrough, John Markley, Bonnie Taylor and Ann Umphrey.

Juniors are Judy Angevine, Andy Gallaardt, Elizabeth Johnson, Ellen Marx, Janet Morrison, Laurie Pinkerton, Nancy Smith, Carol Stephens and Joan Vandermere.

Seniors are Betty Arnoldi, Al Bowland, Gordon Clark, Dennis Dinan, Dave Drury, Betty Hamilton and Jim Jones were a few seniors with a high average.

Other winners were Sue Kennedy, Jay Miller, Joy Oswald and John Risk.

The baseball team at BHHS has started practicing for this season. Although there are many boys still out for it, the first elimination plus the time involved and the cold outdoor workouts have already discouraged quite a few.

Students came back from a refreshing and very necessary spring vacation last week only to discover that the school officials are seriously clamoring down on gum-chewing. Now the bulletin boards are full of various little "reminders," such as articles on etiquette by Amy Vandervilt.

In the freshman elections for next year's class officers which were held Friday, the following students were chosen by secret ballot: president, Dan Riley; vice-president, Dick Ford; secretary, Marilyn Sanders; treasurer, John Colburn, and student council representatives, Amy Miller and Gordon Walker.

The handicap bowling tournament was held last week. Winners haven't been announced as yet, but they will receive all due credit and at least one of the 150 awards to be given out at the League Banquet at school tonight.

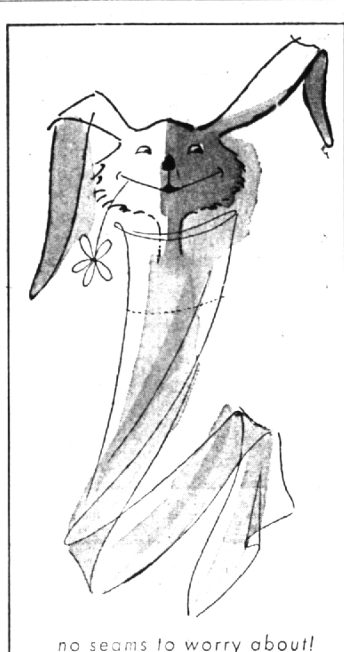

The nursery children's model millinery was held Friday, the following students were chosen by secret ballot: president, Dan Riley; vice-president, Dick Ford; secretary, Marilyn Sanders; treasurer, John Colburn, and student council representatives, Amy Miller and Gordon Walker.

Original millinery creations of paper, straws, paper cups, and various and sundry were modeled by 20 four-year-olds attending the Bloomfield cooperative nursery school in a fashion show yesterday.

The models invited their parents and grandparents to be their guests at the Easter parade at Christ Church, Cranbrook.

An Easter party after the show provided the children's send-off for spring vacation.

Mrs. Evelyn A. Erb assisted the nursery school teacher, Mrs. John Adams and Mrs. Leslie Schaefer.
