Birmingham to Lose Bridge Teacher

Mrs. Merrill J. (Connie) Anderson's name is a familiar one to Birmingham area bridge players. At least to the more than one thousand men and women who have learned the rudiments of the game from her.

Each spring and fall for the past six years, Mrs. Anderson has taught five classes of approximately 20 members each, in sessions held at the Community House, as part of the Community House's adult education program.

Last week, members of the advanced class honored their teacher with a luncheon at Devon Gables, and received their final instructions in the act of bridge.

The Andersons and their children, Lynne, 12, and Douglas, 2, will move in June to New York City, where Mr. Anderson has been transferred with the Ethyl Corp.

Among members of the class on hand for the party were Mrs. F. Dalton, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Howard Tuttle, Mrs. Francis Driscoll, Mrs. J. A. McCallough, Mrs. R. C. Soell, Jr., Mrs. Donald D. Horton, Mrs. M. O. Keenan, Mrs.

Richard McNeal, Mrs. Donald Lightner, Mrs. Jane Lumley, Mrs. C. W. Truxell, Mrs. James A. Hall and Mrs. Walter Meads.
