

At the CHURCH DOOR

By JULIE CANDLER

Speaking at Unity Center recently, garden expert Alice Wessels Burlingame's subject was cultivation. Only this time the popular speaker was referring to plowing in another sphere.

Her topic when she spoke at Sunday morning services, was "The Deep Cultivation Necessary for the Development of a Strong Personality."

Fall must be just around the corner when you hear about rummage sales. Just heard the committee planning the Kirk in the Hills fall sale meets Sept. 5 for breakfast and a business session.

Ten of them will gather at the Orchard lake home of Mrs. William Brown at 10:30 to discuss the 9 to 5 sale slated at Lakeshore house Oct. 17.

The Kirk women might really draw crowds by calling it a fire sale!

When you read this, ye olde religious editor (that's me) will be loafing on the beach at a lodge near Alpena. For two weeks this vacationer's schedule will be filled with nothing—just relaxing.

If ye olde editor doesn't return, you'll know the shock was too much for her.

Lots of things coming up on the busy schedule of Birmingham's United Church Women.

Right now they're preparing a directory for the churchwomen of Birmingham. It will list the dates of all important events sponsored by each group along with the names of officers and other useful information.

They've invited all the new women teachers in Birmingham to a welcoming tea at the Williamsburg road home of Mrs. Earl Triplett, who is a group VP. Date set is Sept. 5, after school.

They're not going to try to compete with Eleanor Roosevelt. The former first lady speaks here on the October date originally scheduled for the UCW missionary institute.

Now the all-day institute is slated for Sept. 27 at First Presbyterian church. The program is titled, "Christ, the Church, and Race", and Rev. and Mrs. Jessie J. McNeal (she's a state and national UCW officer) will be program leaders. Rev. McNeal is minister of a Detroit Baptist church.

Typewriter Will Work For The Christian Way

By JULIE CANDLER

A powder blue portable typewriter is going to do a lot of tap-tap-tapping.

It belongs to Mrs. Loren O. Blunt, 412 W. Lincoln, Birmingham, who hopes to put her pretty new typewriter to work for the religion and the way of life she believes in.

The First Presbyterian church member plans to start with monologues and special dramatized worship services for church women's groups.

"THERE IS VERY little material of this kind for women's groups," says Mrs. Blunt. "At least, that's what they told me last week at the Christian writer's conference."

As we talked in Mrs. Blunt's cozy colonial living room, she pointed to an item in a daily news sheet published at the meeting of 218 Christian writers and editors. It stated, "Harriet H. Blunt from Michigan has written monologues for church guilds and circles, but has never tried to have them published. Why not, Harriet?"

NOW THAT SHE'S back from the week-long conference at the American Baptist assembly on Wisconsin's picturesque Green

She is returning to the typewriter now she explained, because it helps to fill a deep void in her life. That void came about a year ago, when a sudden heart attack took her husband. The Ford Motor company engineer had retired only a short time before.

NOW THAT SHE'S turned back to authoring, she has something definite she wants to do with the little portable. She has been active in her church, and she'll continue to work for the Christian in other women.

Rev. Lloyd Accepts Call

Rev. Barton Lloyd announced Sunday that he has accepted a call to serve St. Stephen's Episcopal church as its first full-time minister.

Mr. Lloyd has been dividing his time between the new mission of Christ Church Cranbrook and a second Christ Church mission, Nativity Episcopal church.

Each Sunday he conducts St. Stephen's church services at 9:30 a.m. in Eastover school, Bloomfield Hills. Then he leaves the North Adams mission for Beverly school, where he conducts the Nativity church services at 11:15 a.m.

Both congregations have been organized for less than a year. Mr. Lloyd came to Christ Church Cranbrook as its minister last August. Notices of church groups' meetings and special services must be submitted in writing by 3 p.m. on Thursday before publication date.
