BUREAU PROVIDES VARIED SERVICES

The Legal Aid bureau of Detroit, a Torish drive service, reported recently that it handles approximately 10,000 cases a year, including those in the Birmingham-Bloomsfield Hills-Franklin area.

The Legal Aid bureau provides legal services to those who have a lawyer but cannot afford to pay the usual fees. It also handles legal matters for the United Community Services, of which it is a member, and the various U.S. agencies.

Three Laymen From Automobiles Reported to Police

Three laymen from cars were reported to the Birmingham police on Saturday. They were all members of the United Community Services, which has a laymen's division.

Ticketed After Hills Accident

On Sending Child To Summer Camp

By EARLENE L. DILITCH

Don't send your child to a camp, and then write home to them every other day.

Having said that, I must admit that a child can gain a lot of benefit from a camp experience. The child learns to be independent, to make decisions for themselves, and to develop social skills.

Correction

An etter wrote, "There was a story in the paper about a new girl in town. She was a terrible welder."

However, this is incorrect. The girl was actually a terrible welder. She was a terrible welder, in fact.

We apologize for any confusion caused by our error.
