

Christ Church Cranbrook Scene of Saturday Wedding

Christ Church Cranbrook was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Corine Eleanor Grosop and Robert Lawrence Henderson. The Rev. William C. Norvell performed the 7:30 o'clock ceremony in the presence of 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frederick Grosop of Farmington, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Henderson of Evansville, Ind., are the parents of the groom.

THE BRIDE chose a gown fashioned of Italian white silk tulle featuring a square neckline with an empire bodice applied in silk organza flowers. A princess line floor length skirt draped into a bustle back falling into a chapel train. An heirloom mantilla of Brussels lace fell to the hemline of a chapel train. A spray of gardenias and stephanotis completed the bridal picture.

Susan Beredahl of Birmingham was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Gammon of Ohio, Judy Bergback of Detroit, Sally Jo Arnold of Birmingham, and Peggy Altman of Farmington.

ATTENDANTS were groomed alike in green silk organza princess lines over tulle featuring V-necklines, short sleeves and swing length skirts. Matching velvet bands and pink and ivory glamoire complemented their ensembles.

Ronald Wathen of Indiana stood as best man. Seating guests were Donald Campbell, James Byers, John Henderson and Paul Henderson, brothers of the groom.

MRS. GROSOP chose a pink chiffon with matching accessories and Mrs. Henderson selected a blue lace with white accessories. Both mothers pinned gardenias to their purses.

Immediately following a buffet supper at Devon Gables, the young couple left for a honeymoon to Northern Michigan.

The new Mrs. Henderson changed to a beige shantung sheath dress with matching jacket and brown accessories. They will reside at Ann Arbor in September.
