

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

KIDS ARE GIVING firemen letters. Monday afternoon Birmingham firemen had to rescue 4-year-old Pamela Bower daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Boucher, 1690 Dorchester, after she locked herself in a second-floor bathroom. The Chesterfield second-story men had to scale a ladder and climb through a window to free Pamela, who could lock the door but couldn't operate the latch to open it. About noon Nov. 25 Bloomfield Hills firemen freed a 5-year-old visitor at the Dan O'Madigan, Jr., home on Chesterfield from the clutches of an angel-food cake tin. The youngster had pulled the tin down under his chin and over his shoulders, his head sticking through the opening. Firemen Robert Brown and A. Ackerhoff did the rescue work with their snips. Grease and a nachos tried by the O'Madigans had failed.

THE OAKLAND county Young Republican club will hold a Christmas party for 15 underprivileged children from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Friday at the GOP headquarters here. Refreshments will be served and gifts and articles of clothing given to the children. Mrs. James Foster of Birmingham is in charge of refreshments and Sally Roseberry of Franklin is entertainment chairman.

NOW THEY'RE GETTING Birmingham kids ready for space travel: A fourth grade class at Greenfield school district here. After a study of the solar system, they took an imaginary trip through space. They planned what supplies and equipment should be taken along. They figured out the loading arrangement, dreamed up some interesting impressions of the people, animals and vegetation they saw by their pretend trip to Saturn. All this was recorded in a story that accompanied a huge mural picturing the space trip. Says their teacher, Miss Craig, "This study of the universe caught up all the inquisitiveness of the class and made science a timely adventure as well as a valuable learning experience."

THAT LOUD FOGHORN-TYPE sound once again in Birmingham still bewilders some local folk. It's the city's air raid signal, consisting of a horn on each of the two fire stations, plus a siren atop the municipal building downtown. Tests are made at 2 p.m. on the 15th of each month. The 3-minute steady beat indicates the "alert" warning. The 3-minute "warble" signals "take cover."

A NEW ETON RINK attendance record was established on the second day of this season, the recreation department reports. Friday's total of 1,255 topped last year's mark by more than 100. Sunday's attendance also topped the one thousand mark. Use that day was 1,024.

BIRMINGHAM MAY have some public property which the city doesn't need. City and State Board of sold commissioners (this week he is working up a new report on "disposition of certain public properties"). Such lists in the past usually have contained recommendations for sale of city lands which now are considered "unnecessary."

DON'T FORGET: That Christmas tree is one of the most combustible objects known. Be Careful!

WALTER KADELL, 836 Lakewood, Birmingham, has some guests who have to drink. He reports, and the number varies from eight to a dozen, he reports. And they are fouling up dinner arrangements for the regular contingent. "I enjoy feeding the wild birds, but these pigeons are fouling up my bird feed budget," Kadeil said.

WE'VE HEARD of father-son nights, and mother-daughter nights, but last week this Wanderer ran into a new one—a father-daughter night. The pops were guests of their daughters at Birmingham high school. The hostesses are members of the Girls' athletic association there, and 50 or 60 girls got plenty of exercise in volleyball, and the like. Saw one volleyball game in which the dads played their daughters. While we watched, the dads were winning, too.

IN HER OWN handwriting, a little girl, who told Santa Claus her name was Yvonne, had a letter to her father to him at "North Pole—Inverse." Must have been watching some of those space shows on television.

THEY'RE GOING to have an outdoor decorating contest this Christmas for residents of the Sheffield Estates subdivision. Their aim is to brighten and beautify their spot in Birmingham this Christmas, and the first three winners will receive awards of $15, $10 and $5 each. The area is east of Torry between 14 Mile road and Lincoln.

WOULD-BE authors looking for material for a humorous book would do well to follow likable Al Sundell around on his duties. Sundell handles animal complaints received by Birmingham police. Last week found him chasing a monkey around a prominent local psychiatrist's office. It wasn't a patient (or his psychosis). The monkey had been delivered in a cage ordered by Dr. Roebuck catalog by the way. The little critter was to be the psychiatrist's Christmas gift to a young acquaintance. When two employees attempted to transfer the monkey to a larger cage, he jumped away from them. He continued leaping away until only a monkey can (don't know if they had a chandler). Then—Enter Sundell! Around and around he went, trying to dodge expensive items ornamenting the office, and hoping the monkey would avoid them, too. It took a while, he admits, but finally, he says, "I got my little hands on him."

BIRMINGHAM'S MAYOR William E. Roberts gave fellow commissioners a capsule report on his last week's trip to the American municipal league's annual convention in San Francisco. "I was in a pretty good fix," he says, "and I was considerably from it." First Birmingham mayor to make such a trip, Roberts said he and other delegates heard a civil defense message by Federal Administrator Leo A. Hoegh, learned something about the metropolitan-type government of London, England, and heard discussions on how federal aid might be distributed to cities instead of through the state governments. He said more than 1,000 people attended. "Michigan's delegation was second in size only to California's," the mayor stated.
