CAROL ANN JURICA
EDITOR'S NOTE: This week we present Carol Ann Jurica, latest of the Birmingham Eccentric's staff of school correspondents, who will be reporting news from Holy Name school in Birmingham.
Capable Carol Ann edits "The Student's Pen", Holy Name school newspaper, though she is only 12 years old and a seventh grader. She lives at 6009 Castle drive, Bloomfield Hills, and says she loves to write.

Holy Name School
8th Graders Ready
Advent Play

By CAROL ANN JURICA
The eighth graders at Holy Name are busy as bees, preparing for an Advent play which will be staged next Wednesday. Jimmy Hergott, Bob Richardson, Victor Stumph, and Larry Robertson are tirelessly drawing all the necessary scenery.

Every other Sunday night at 7 p.m., teenagers of Holy Name meet in the school gymnasium to participate in dancing and other activities. Next "Teen Town" is slated for Sunday, Dec. 22. $1 provides a membership card which entitles the holder to attend all "Teen Town" meetings for one year.

Southfield
Hi Notes

By JUDY CADDELL
Southfield high was host Monday afternoon to the Interlakes conference debate. Judges for the debate from Wayne state university were for varsity, Mr. James McManis, Mr. George Brown, and Mr. George Hinds; for junior varsity, Mr. Bruce Roberts. Coaches from the participating schools were Robert Usellis, Cranbrook; Lloyd Smith, Farmington; Frank Velechansky, Van Dyke; Eleanor Duckowitz, Walled Lake; Patti Looman, Waterford, and Daniel Julien, Southfield.

Serogitimus met Monday evening to complete the handwork on the shirts they made for the Goodfellows. The Serogitimus, a service club for the school and community, help at school functions and in outside programs such as the Goodfellows.

"The Football Bust," a dinner honoring the Southfield Interlakes champs, was held Wednesday evening in the school gym. Lou Agase, Michigan state university line coach, was speaker of the evening and Neal "Doc" Fenkel, publicity director of the Detroit Tigers, was toastmaster.

A poster contest is being held for the New Year's Eve dance. The dance and contest is being sponsored by the Southfield township chamber. The posters, to be judged by the Community Congregational church, will be awarded a first prize of $10. Second and third prizes will be tickets to the dance.

Stanford Burr and Mary Lou Lake of the Southfield counselling staff attended the principal-freshman conference at Albion College last Tuesday. Accompanying them were Judy Baker, Myrna Palmer and Marie Richardson.

Susan Deem resigned last weekend as the Detroit Times dream queen. She was chosen by judges of the Detroit Times from among the Homecoming queens of the Michigan high schools. Her reign began with a trip to the Detroit Times and the Ford Rotunda accompanied by the dream team. She dined in Windsor and watched the Detroit-Houston basketball game. Sunday afternoon Sue and her escorts attended the Lions game, where they were introduced at half-time. After the game Sue and the team were honored at a banquet at the Sheraton Cadillac hotel. Sunday evening there was a hockey game to bring all the excitement to a close. Sue was presented with a compact engraved with the event and year of her reign.

New Southfield
School Plans First
Christmas Program

The new Northbrook school in Southfield township will present its first annual Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.
All seven grades and kindergarten will participate, including the orchestra and the select chorus of 70 voices. The program will feature popular secular songs, as well as sacred songs.
Narration of the Nativity, portrayed in pantomime by children from the third and fourth grades will highlight the evening.
The program is under direction of Maria Siegfried, teacher of vocal music.
