

Birmingham, Southfield Highs Boast New Swimming Pools

Permanent seating for an estimated 800 and an electric scoreboard are among features of Birmingham high's new swimming pool (above). The first meet in the new pool was held Nov. 27 with Highland Park.

This patio exterior (center) of Birmingham's new pool provides an outdoor effect during the winter and extra room during the summer. The glass can be removed for warm weather swimming.

Southfield high's new pool also features permanent seating. The pool is built in a "T" shape. The first Southfield home swimming meet will be held tonight with Hazel Park. This is the first year Southfield has sponsored a swimming team.

The Birmingham Eccentric

How splendid it would be if all married couples would, on the anniversary date of their marriage, recall in loving remembrance their courtship days. Most married folks were in love with each other; years of marriage may lead to quiet continuous romancing . . . but not enough to efface it completely.
