In the field of manual dexterity, John Watkins has had his experiences with typewriters and newspaper publications. Last week during typing class and a timed writing, John managed to get his fingers caught in the keys. It delayed his typing to quite a degree.

Then John fell victim to an ink-laden galley while setting the type for the high school newspaper. His entire arm, wrist to elbow, was covered with the ink as he read proofs without paying attention to where he rested his arm.

Recently JoAnn Westermeyer was found reading a book, "Uncle Remus", during English class. JoAnn had quite a bit of explaining to do to convince the class and teacher it wasn't a typical sample of her literary taste.

Tryouts for the annual talent assembly were held last week. Greater interest was shown this year than ever before. Acts ranged from songs, trapeze, juggling, acrobatics, to tap dancing and juggling.

A panel of six judges, five students and one teacher, judged the contestants on variety, talent, performance and the general popularity of the act. From the 50 acts, 12 were chosen to participate in the school and local talent assembly.

Grace Hodgkinson is developing an inferiority complex. She has sits for an 11-year-old boy who beats her at chess. His six-year-old sister beats her at checkers.

Causing excitement in most of the senior government classes are Merit Scholarship competition.

the mock court trials. Studying civil and criminal courts, the students gain a better picture of the actual trials and procedures when they actually conduct typical trials, with judicial robes, witnesses, lawyers and clerks.

Southfield is very proud of Arlene Nepsstad, who placed third in the Suburban Voice of Christian Youth quiz team. Among over 70 participants, Arlene gained the third highest score for the season. She placed fifth on the combined city and suburban teams. With many long hours of study and thought, this honor automatic places Arlene on the championship quiz team. She will participate in a rally at Masonic Temple in May.

Southfield Jay, the high school newspaper, defines outbursts as: When you order something on the menu and find that the orchestra is playing it. It is finally confirmed that seniors will go on the class trip to Mackinac Island via the S. S. South American from May 19-22. As graduation comes closer, seniors become busier. Today they are ordering name cards and graduation announcements. It is interesting to note some of the adjectives the seniors give to graduation: exciting, sad, happy, scary, and expensive.

Rehearsals for the spring play, "Love Is Eternal", based on the Irving Stone novel, are underway, directed by Daniel Fallon. The play tells the story of the romance between Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd. It will be presented April 12 and 13 at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.
