SINKING SHIP SALE or FLOTSAM & JETSAM

As we cogitate on whether or not this ship is going to sink or rise, we hasten to take steps simply to keep it floating.

One way to do this is to jettison some jetsam which then apparently becomes flotsam. In general these two categories include:—

- Cats and dogs (inanimate)
- Things which got dented
- Odds & ends
- Buying errors
- Items priced too low to attract attention
- Things of which too many are here.

Questionable description of same:—

Imperial Decanters (thought to be from King Arthur's Court) . . . $1.00 (empty)

Aluminum Trash Carrier, (holds other kinds of trash also). Does $13.95 sound better than $19.95? Only 1 left (out of 1.)

A Thermal Pail . . . ordinary bucket covered with fibre glass and simulated leather. A real honey! Sold for $12.95 . . . only it didn't. We will try $7.95 and agree to haggle a bit . . . to see if we get $8.95 or $5.95.

Neat, shiny Brass Watering Cans that do not leak. New price $4.30 . . . old price $2.95 or vice-versa.

One Irish Setter with a slight sneer and red soles. We hope to get 19c for this $1.50 ribbon winner.

This gives you a small idea of how to make money while you spend it. Additional items can be mentioned such as Bird Houses, Barbecue stuff, flower arranging kits, a bit of glass and a bit of this and that, but we feel it unwise to whet your appetites too much.

NOTE:—THE SALE WILL CONTINUE UNTIL Flo & Jet

Student Teacher Wed In University Chapel

The Frank J. Prout chapel on the campus of Bowling Green State university was the scene of the December marriage of Marilyn Louise Nicholas and Carroll L. Thurston of Deshler, Ohio.

Formerly of Valley court, Birmingham, the bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lynn N. Nicholas, is currently student teaching in the Birmingham public schools. The groom is working on his master's at Wayne State university and teaching part-time in the Detroit public schools.

They are making their home at 1706 Maxwell, Royal Oak, after returning from their honeymoon through Virginia, visiting in Williamsburg, Jamestown and Monticello.

MARILYN was gowned in white lace over satin with a ballerina length scooped hemline with an apron effect in back consisting of rows of white tulle ruffling with a large white satin bow. She carried a lavender orchid surrounded by white feather carnations and ivy.

Jane Metzger, a college classmate, was her maid of honor. Her ballerina length gown was of green velvet and red carnations and ably accented her white satin muff. Chuckie Thurston, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer in a black velvet Little Lord Fauntleroy suit.

DALE Thurston from Columbus, Ohio, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Fred Nicholas of Birmingham, brother of the bride and Lowell Thurston, brother of the groom from Deshler, Ohio.

The bride's mother wore a blue-gray taffeta dress with lace and rhinestone trim around a square neck and a jacket with matching trim. Her flowers were pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore rose lace over an iridescent taffeta dress with three-quarter length sleeves and white accessories. She chose a lavender orchid.

The Liberty Bell was cast in England.
