Six hundred people have enrolled for hobby and craft classes which begin this week at Birmingham Community House, according to Myra Showman, staff member in charge of adult education. A second semester bridge class filled up so fast that another class on Friday had to be added, Miss Showman said.

Mrs. Swanson Honored for Work On Furnishings

Mrs. Pipsan Saarinen Swanson, of 955 Lone Pine road, Bloomfield Hills, was recently awarded the Louise Bolender award for 1957 at a luncheon in Chicago by the Home Fashions league of Illinois. The award was established seven years ago on the death of one of her founding members. In her memory and for her contribution to the home art and industry, the award is given annually to a woman residing and working in the Midwest who has made an outstanding contribution to some facet of the home furnishing industry.

Maple-Willits Alley Problem Reapproached

Most of the Maple-Willits alley west of Woodward can be paved this coming season, although it may be some while later that the Maple entrance is finished, Birmingham commissioners decided Monday night. They asked City Manager Harold Stone to negotiate for purchase of two small parcels to be turned into additional parking space immediately behind the Maple frontage.

In 1955 Mrs. Swanson was chosen to design the Midwest Regional home at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, sponsored and published by Life magazine. Last fall Mrs. Swanson also received an award at the "Design in Hardwood" competition in Chicago for outstanding achievement in custom furniture design for a room divider and music storage cabinet designed for the Adams residence in Bloomfield Hills.

Dale Carnegie Course Sponsored By Exchange Club

Residents of Birmingham and surrounding communities are being invited to attend a demonstration of the Dale Carnegie course which will be conducted next Wednesday, starting at 7:30 p.m., at the Birmingham Community House, 380 S. Bates street.

Issuing the invitation is the Exchange club of Birmingham, which last year sponsored two successful Dale Carnegie classes as a part of its public service program. Birmingham's third class will be formed at this demonstration and its first session will be held one week later, according to Harry W. Exchange club president.

The commission agreed with the Commissioner Carl Fierman's suggestion that the project be reviewed with affected property owners at a subsequent commission meeting.

Young Repubs To 'Brainstorm'

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Gilbert, of 580 Ann, Birmingham, will participate in a "brainstorming" session on "Unique Ways of Raising Money" at the next meeting of Oakland County Young Republicans.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Birmingham Community House. Gilbert said that this was a fresh concept in idea development, designed to encourage all club members to express their thoughts on important matters.

In "brainstorming," a panel of five or more present ideas on an assigned subject or problem. Any idea is welcome, no matter how fantastic it may seem.

You're bound to come up with worthwhile results," Gilbert added, "because you get a composite of everyone's ideas."

He expressed hope that many young Republicans in Oakland county would take advantage of the opportunity to have "their say" in politics.

To Tell Stories

Story hour Saturday lists "Peter Humberg and the White Cat" and "The Husband Who Was Left to Mind the House" for kindergarten through sixth grade children. Mrs. Kathleen Burgess will be the story teller from 10:30 to 11 a.m. at Baldwin public library.

Special assessment rolls for alley widening, putting in a sewer and paving of the surface, were established in 1946. Some right-of-way was acquired and the sewer constructed. Because of cost differences, paving will require considerable more money on subsequent deficiency rolls, the city emphasized.

New Service Adds Protection for Area

A new community protection, the Michigan Rescue Service, is now bolstering facilities in Birmingham and surrounding area. Headed by Jerry Tobias, 1704 Graefield, Birmingham, member of the Detroit Fire Buffs Association, the service is presently equipped with an ambulance and complete emergency facilities. Tobias, also a member of the Birmingham auxiliary police, is a salesman during the day and operates the rescue service at night.

"We do not intend to compete with ambulance services or police," Tobias said. "We will respond only at the request of the police and fire departments as an auxiliary unit. The service is affiliated with the Detroit Fire Buffs, a branch of the international organization. The ambulance has a red cross unit, resuscitator, stretcher, and four 20-pound extinguishers, for small fires.

Tobias' service covers the Birmingham, Bloomfield village, Troy township, Southfield township and Cranbrook areas.

You'll try to get out of jury duty if you are called because it takes too much of your time or maybe you can't afford it. And that's where we'll both be dead wrong!

Most of us want to do our civic duty but we hate to break up the pleasant routine of living. Some times we even shirk our civic duty to vote.

Sometimes I think we don't value our freedoms enough—we haven't had to pay for them through sacrifice.

I just happened to see a so-called juror's Creed the other day and it struck me that, instead of a sacrifice, jury duty is a privilege enjoyed by the free citizens of our country to participate in the administration of justice.

HERE IS the creed I saw: I am a juror. I am a seeker after truth. I must listen carefully and with concentration to all the evidence. I must heed and follow the instructions of the court.

I must respectfully and attentively follow the arguments of the lawyers, dispassionately seeking to find and follow the silver thread of truth through their conflicting assertions. I must lay aside all bias and prejudice. I must be led by my intelligence and not by my emotions.

I MUST respect the opinions of my fellow jurors, as they must respect mine, and in a spirit of tolerance and understanding most endeavor to bring the deliberations of the whole jury to agreement upon a verdict.

I must never assent to a verdict which violates the instructions of the court or which finds as a fact that which, under the evidence and in my conscience, I believe to be untrue.

In line I must apply the Golden Rule by putting myself impartially in the place of the plaintiff and of the defendant, remembering that although I am a juror today passing upon the rights of others, tomorrow I may be a litigant whose rights other jurors shall pass upon.

My verdict must do justice, for what is just is "true and righteous altogether"; and when my term of jury service is ended I must leave it with my citizenship unswayed and with my conscience clear.—Judge John H. Flanagan, Carthage, Missouri.
